

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. THE collection of Music in the Fitzwilliam Museum, which is catalogued in the following pages, may fairly be said to rank third in importance among the chief musical libraries of Britain, not, perhaps, in actual size, but in the number and interest of the autograph MSS. which it contains, especially works by Italian and English composers.

The MS. scores in the autograph of Handel are very numerous and valuable; and a large quantity of unpublished and hitherto little known matter by many different composers is now, for the first time, described and brought before the notice of the musical world at large.

Special thanks are due for the long and patient labour which has been devoted to the work by Mr Fuller-Maitland, who is so well recognized as an authority on the subject by students both of ancient and of modern music.

J. HENRY MIDDLETON,

Director of the Fitzwilliam Museum.

PREFACE.

Note.

After each MS. or division of a MS. volume, its date, as far as can be ascertained, size (given in centimetres, the height first and then the breadth) and the number of leaves, are given.

The capital letters after vocal works are the ordinary abbreviations for Soprano, Mezzo-soprano, Alto, Tenor, and Bass. Occasionally the clefs for baritone and basso profondo are found; in such cases their presence is indicated by the contractions Be. and Bo. respectively.

All works by Handel are referred to the edition of the German Handel Society, by the initials H.-G.

All works by Palestrina are referred to the complete edition of Breitkopf und Hartel, by the initials B. & H.

The "Sonatas" of Domenico Scarlatti are referred to the most complete edition at present in existence, that of Czerny, by the contraction Cz.

In other cases references have been given to the best-known of the collections in which the works occur.

In nearly every case the orthography of the MSS. has been retained; in the large series of Marenzio's Madrigals, however, it was necessary to correct the spelling of the copyist, who was evidently ignorant of Italian.

sketch-books and miscellaneous manuscripts in the hand-writing of Handel, which have lately been rearranged and indexed with a thoroughness beyond all praise, by Dr A. H. Mann, whose contribution (pp. 157—227) is by no means the least valuable part of this catalogue. The sketches were formerly preserved in six volumes in which no system of arrangement could be perceived; there is no doubt, indeed, that these books, together with those in the Royal Library at Buckingham Palace, contained the fragments of compositions left to John Christopher Smith at the composer's death. Could the two collections have been brought together, there is little doubt that some complete compositions would have come to light. This, however, for reasons which need not here be specified, has been found impossible, the terms of Lord Fitzwilliam's will preventing the removal of the books from the library, in any circumstances; the best and only alternative method of dealing with the volumes was clearly to re-arrange their contents, putting together all fragments of any known compositions as well as any sketches referring to the same. To identify all these fragments, which, in the large majority of cases, are without words, was a work that could have been done by no one who had not an exhaustive knowledge of Handel's work, as well as an infinite stock of perseverance. In cases such as this, the identification of a single group of notes may often entail a careful search through 20 or 30 printed scores. It is safe to say that the result could hardly have been attained, even by so ardent an enthusiast for Handel as Dr Mann, had not the monumental edition of Handel's works by Dr Chrysander been available. This edition, as well as the complete edition of Palestrina, and many modern scores, etc. of great value, forms part of the munificent gift of Mr Pendlebury, a portion of the library which does not appear in the present catalogue, for the gratifying reasons that it is not yet completed, and that it is not under the same conditions as the rest of the library in respect of the restrictions as to the temporary removal of the books.

- 23 F 12, 13. Two volumes containing MS. scores of Wilbye's madrigals, made from the original part-books, printed 1598 and 1609. This whole set of books (down to no. 40 inclusive) belonged to Dr Bever, and the scores were no doubt made by his copyist, Didsbury. The last four madrigals in the second set (35) are in the following order, instead of the order in the printed books: 'Softly, O softly,' 'Long have I made,' 'Draw on, sweet night,' and 'Stay, Corydon.' The list of contents will be found in Rimbault's Bibliotheca Madrigaliana, pp. 11 and 28, and the works themselves in the Musical Antiquarian Society's edition, 1841 and 1846.
[c. 1780, 23 x 29, ff. 82, 118.]

- 23 F 14. Morley's Madrigals. Score made from the part-books of 1600.¹ [c. 1780, 23 x 29, ff. 88 written.]

37.

- 23 F 15. Morley's Canzonets. Score made from the part-books. Together with other madrigals by the same composer:—
[c. 1780, 22·5 x 28·5, ff. 140.]
17 Canzonets (1597) (Bibl. Madr., p. 10).
'Arise, awake,' from the Triumphs of Oriana, p. 101.
Ballets (printed 1595, Bibl. Mad. p. 6) with the exception of 'Phillis, I fain would die now' (see below).

'O Amica mea,' from A Plaine and Easie Introduction (1597).
The works for six and seven voices from the canzonets of

that at the beginning of No. 109, where it undoubtedly is in the same hand-writing as the music (i.e. the autograph of Paradies). In this case it must indicate possession, since the date of the MS. is undoubtedly much anterior to Paradies.

³ Instead of the usual form of the Gloria at the end, the words 'Glory to God on high,' and 'Hallelujah' occur.

'Non cerchi, non spevi.' A. ('Nell atto secondo.') [ff. 4.]

'Quando sara quel di.' S. ('Per Emilia atto 3°.') [ff. 8.]

(Coro) 'Brilla e gode in seno' (apparently a finale, in which the characters Antioco, Arsinoe, Stratonice, Tigrane, and Seleuco take part). [ff. 19.]

- 30 G 8. Three anthems in score, with accompaniments, by 'Mr Percivall.'

[c. 1750, 23.5 x 33, ff. 69.]

'O be joyful in God' (Ps. lxvi.) for 4 voices.

'Bow down Thine ear' (Ps. lxxxvi.) for 5 voices.

'Save me, O God,' for 4 voices.

116.

- 30 G 9. A volume of organ accompaniments to services and anthems, probably in the handwriting of Dr Blow (dated 1707).
[1707, 21 x 34.5, ff. 126.]

The first 48 pp. of the MS. are missing, p. 49 beginning with a portion of Byrd. 'Bow Thine ear' (at bar 11 after the first double bar).

- p. 50. Richard Portman. Te Deum, Bened., Magn. and N. D. in G.
58. Child. 'If the Lord Himself.'
60. Adrian Batten. 'Haste Thee, O God.'
62. Tucker. 'O give thanks.'
64. Child. Morn. and Even. Service (Cantate and Deus Mis.)
in F.
72. „ 'Praise the Lord, O my soul.'
74. Blow. Morn. and Even. Service in A minor.
83. Aldrich. 'Call to remembrance.'
86. Farrant. Morn. and Even. Service in A minor.
96. Weldon. 'O Lord, rebuke me not.'
98. Blow. Morn. and Even. Service in C.
108. „ 'Lord, Thou art become gracious.'
109. ? Blow. 'Thy hands have made me and fashioned me.'

110. Blow. Morn. and Even. Service in D minor.
 118. Aldrich. 'By the waters of Babylon.'
 120. „ Morn. and Even. Service in G.
 128. „ 'O give thanks' (for six voices).
 130. Blow. 'Be merciful.'
 132. Child. Morn. Service in A minor.
 137. Rogers. Even. Service in A minor.
 141. Batten. 'O praise the Lord, all ye heathen.'
 144. Blow. Morn. and Even. Service in G minor.
 155. „ 'Praise the Lord, O my soul.'
 158. „ Morn. and Even. Service in F.
 169. † Blow. 'Teach me Thy way, O Lord.'

170. † Blow. 'Put me not to rebuke.'

173. Rogers. Morn. and Even. Service in D.
 181. Blow. 'Praise the Lord, ye Servants.'
 182. „ 'In the time of trouble.'
 184. „ Morn. and Even. Service in A. (Both sets of canticles at Evening Prayer.)
 204. „ 'O God, my heart is ready.'
 206. „ 'I will praise the name of God.'
 208. Elway Bevin. Morn. and Even. Service in D minor.

217. † Bevin. 'Bow down Thine ear.'

220. † Bevin. 'My God, my God.'

222. † Bevin. 'O praise the Lord of heaven.'

224. Blow. Morn. and Even. Service in D.

236. † Blow. 'Lord, Thou knowest all my desires.'

The time of the first bar is to be explained by regarding the first note as a cue to the organist for an introductory chord of C minor.

238. † Blow. 'My days are gone like a shadow.'

240. Blow. Even. Service in G.
243. Child. Morn. and Even. Service in D.

30 G 10. Volume of Services and Anthems in score, in the handwriting of Dr Blow. The anthems are found at one end of the book, occupying 514 pp., and the services at the other end, on reversing the volume. On the anthem side is bound up, with the central volume, another MS. of anthems in score (roman numerals in brackets, below), and, at the service side of the book, Matthew Locke's pamphlet (printed, see no. 367), 'Modern Church Music Vindicated, etc.' and a MS. collection of Services, paged 05 to 033. The central volume containing 393 ff., is dated 1683. The whole has belonged, at different times, to Dr Philip Hayes, and Dr S. Arnold. The anthems marked with an asterisk are contained also in no. 88.

Nos. 128, 9 are two volumes bound in red morocco, with arms on sides. [Three roses in the shield, and below, a tree and serpent. The initials A. A. on each side of the shield.] The first is lettered, on back, 'Cant: Lulier,' and the second 'Cant: Stra: Tom: II.' From this it would seem that the first is a collection of songs by a composer whose name is otherwise unknown, while the second is the second vol. of a collection of songs by Stradella. Both have hitherto been attributed to the latter composer.

- 32 E 10. 'Cant: Lulier' [songs for soprano].

[17th cent. 16 x 22, ff. 106.]

'Sarei troppo felice,' with string accompaniment.
 'Tra folte ombrose,' with string accompaniment.
 'La dove a Pafò in seno,' with string accompaniment.
 'Non vantar tanta bellezza,' with string accompaniment.
 'Con ingiuste querele.'
 'Speranze lasciatemi.'
 'Qual barbara mercè.'
 'Dove spiegate il volo.'
 'Intorno a picciol lume,' with string accompaniment.
 'Ivi cadenti.'¹

32 F 11. Score of Allegri's Miserere for two choirs¹. Published in Burney's Music of the Sistine Chapel. See 366.

[c. 1770, 21 × 28·4, ff. 14.]

32 F 12. Volume of 31 Sonatas by Domenico Scarlatti, for harpsichord.

All but two of these sonatas were printed from this copy, and published by Birchall. See 423. The order is slightly different. Nos. 13 and 17 of the MS. (Czerny, Nos. 91 and 86) do not appear in Birchall's edition, as they had already appeared in print. The thematic index at the end of the MS. has the word 'printed' in pencil opposite these two sonatas. Birchall makes up his number to thirty by including the 22nd sonata of no. 148. See below.

[c. 1750, 21·5 × 28·5, ff. 63.]

32 F 13. Volume of 24 sonatas by Domenico Scarlatti.²

[c. 1750, 21·3 × 28·5, ff. 71.]

201 (226). „ 'Lord, how are they encreased.' Verse for two tenors.
(229). Tucker. 'My heart is fixed.' (The beginning of the anthem the end of which is on p. 197 (221).)
(231). J. Clark. 'The Lord is my strength.'
(232). Wm. C. (Croft?). 'O praise the Lord, all ye heathen.'
(234). Anon. 'We have a strong city,' in A.

¹ ('H. Purcell, 1693.') On pp. 58 and 59 there are rough pencil notes of words, in another hand. This part of the MS. breaks off in the middle of the verse 'My song shall be alway,' in A, on p. 62.

² The MS. has apparently been twice bound up, once with 60 more pages in it than now exist; from this point most of the pages bear the double numbers which are given, the higher numerals on the inside of the page as at present arranged. From p. 203 (228) the earlier pagination is discarded (with the lower set of numerals). A gap of upwards of 50 pp. occurs here.

³ In the earlier handwriting.

32 G 29.

[c. 1625, 33·9 × 22, ff. 209 written.]

This most remarkable collection of English 17th-century instrumental music is contained in a small folio volume consisting of 220 folios of paper ruled by hand for music in 6-line staves, 209 of which are filled with music written in a small but distinct handwriting. The volume measures 33 $\frac{9}{10}$ centimetres in height by 22 centimetres in breadth, and the binding (a fine specimen of English 17th-century workmanship) is of crimson morocco, enriched with beautiful gold tooling, the sides being sprinkled with fleurs-de-lis. The water-mark on the paper is a crozier-case, measuring 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches in height and 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches in its widest part. It is possible that this mark indicates that the paper was manufactured at Basel, as the arms of that town are similar to it. The manuscript has in places been cut by the binder, but the binding is probably not of later date than the bulk of the book. Nothing is known of the history of the volume before the early part of the 18th century, when it was first noticed as being in the possession of Dr Pepusch, but there is sufficient evidence to prove that it can never have belonged, as used to be generally supposed, to Queen Elizabeth. The whole of the manuscript is in one handwriting, in many cases the compositions it contains bear the dates at which they were composed, and these dates (as will be seen from the list printed below) are in no sort of chronological order. The latest dated composition is an 'Ut, re, mi, fa, sol, la, a 4 voci,' by the Amsterdam organist Jehan Peterson Sweelinck (1577-81-1621), which occurs on page 216, and bears the date 1612, nine years after the death of Queen Elizabeth. But there is another piece in the volume which proves that the collection must have been written even later than this. At page 255 is a short composition by Dr John Bull, entitled 'D. Bull's Juell' (i. e. 'Dr Bull's Jewel'). Another copy of this occurs on folio 49b of a manuscript collection of Bull's instrumental music preserved in the British Museum (Add. MS. 23,623), which is particularly valuable as containing the dates at which most of the compositions were written, and this copy bears the inscription 'Het Juweel van Doctor Jan Bull quod fecit anno 1621. 12 December.' If this evidence is to be relied upon, the volume must therefore have been written later than this date, and in all probability it dates from the third decade of the 17th century, the character of the handwriting, as well as the absence of compositions by musicians of a later date precluding the possibility of its being of more recent origin. Mr Chappell, at the beginning of his work on the 'Popular Music of the *Olden Time*¹ (p. xv) surmised that this collection may have been made for, or by, an English resident in the Netherlands, and that Dr Pepusch obtained it in that country. This conjecture he founded upon the fact that the only name which occurs in an abbreviated form throughout the book is that of Tregian, and that a sonnet signed 'Fr. Tregian' is prefixed to Verstegan's 'Restitution of Decayed Intelligence,' which was published at Antwerp in 1605. The abbreviated name occurs as follows: at p. 111 is a composition of William Byrd's, headed 'Treg. Ground'; at p. 152 is a 'Pavana Dolorosa. Treg.,' set by Peter Philipps and dated 1593; at p. 171 the initials Ph. Tr. are set to a Pavan by Byrd; at p. 196 is a short piece entitled 'Heaven and Earth,' to which no composer's name is given besides the syllable 'Fre' (probably a contraction of 'F. Tregian'); at p. 297 in the margin, the initials 'F.Tr.' are written against the first line of a jig by William Byrd; and on p. 315 'Mrs Katherin Tregian's Pauen' is written in the margin against a Pavana Chromatica by William Tisdall. These few clues certainly point to some connection of the volume with the Tregians, who were a very rich and powerful Catholic family, whose seat was at Golden or Volveden in Cornwall, in which county their estates were said to have been worth £3000 per annum. Towards the close of the 16th century the head of the family was named Francis Tregian: his mother was named Katherine, and was the daughter of Sir John and Lady Elizabeth Arundell of Lanherne². In the year 1577 the Tregian family seem to have become suspected, probably as much on account of their wealth as of their religion, and (according to one account) a conspiracy was planned for their ruin. On June 8 the house at Golden was entered and searched, and one Cuthbert Mayne, a priest of Douay, steward to Francis Tregian, was arrested and imprisoned, with several of Tregian's servants, 'all gentlemen saving one,' says a contemporary account, in Launceston Gaol. At the following assizes, Mayne was convicted of high treason, and was hanged, drawn, and quartered at Launceston on Nov. 29 of the same year. Tregian himself, who had been bound over to appear at the assizes, was committed a close prisoner to the Marshalsea, where he remained for ten months. He was then suddenly arraigned at the King's Bench and sent into Cornwall to be tried. For some time the jury would deliver no verdict, but after they had been repeatedly threatened by the judges, a conviction was obtained, and Tregian was sentenced to suffer the penalty of praemunire and to perpetual banishment. On hearing his sentence he exclaimed, 'Pereant bona, quae si non periissent, fortassis dominum suum perdidissent!' Immediately judgment was given, Tregian was laden with irons and thrown into the foul common gaol of the county; his goods were seized, his wife and children were expelled, and his mother was deprived of her jointure, so that 'she remained opprest with calamity until her death.' After being moved from prison to prison, and suffering indignities without number, which he endured with the utmost fortitude, Tregian was finally removed to the Fleet, where his wife joined him. He remained in prison for twenty-four (or, according to some accounts, twenty-eight) years, during which time he suffered much from illness, but occupied himself by writing poetry, and about the end of Elizabeth's reign he was released on the petition of his friends, though his estates still remained forfeited. In 1606 he left England on account of his ill-health, and went to Madrid. On his way he visited Douay (July 1606), and at Madrid he was kindly received by Philip III., who granted him a pension. He retired to Lisbon, and died there Sept. 25, 1608, aged 60. He was buried in the church of St Roch, and soon came to be regarded as a saint. His body was said to have been found uncorrupted twenty years after his death, and it was alleged that miracles had been worked at his grave. Francis Tregian had no less than eighteen children, of whom eleven were born in prison. The eldest son, who bore his father's name of Francis, was educated first at Eu, and entered Douay Sept. 29, 1586. On the occasion of a visit to the college of the Bishop of Piacenza, Aug. 14, 1591, he was chosen to deliver a Latin address of welcome. He left Douay on July 11, 1592, and was afterwards for two years chamberlain to Cardinal Allen, upon whose death in 1594 he delivered a funeral oration in the church of the English College at Rome. This was probably the 'Planctus de Morte Cardinalis Alani' which, according to some accounts of the family, was written by Charles Tregian, another son of the elder Francis Tregian. In a list of the Cardinal's household, drawn up after his death and now preserved in the Archives of Simancas, Francis Tregian the younger is described as 'molto nobile, di 20 anni, secolare, di ingenio felicissimo, dotto in filosofia, in musica, et nella lingua latina.' He eventually returned to England, where he bought back his father's lands, but in 1608—9 was convicted of recusancy and committed to the Fleet. He died there, probably in 1619, owing the Warden above £200 for 'meate, drinke and lodging.' A contemporary record states that in his rooms at the Fleet there were many hundred books.

It will thus be seen that the connection of the Tregian family with the Netherlands was even closer than Mr Chappell suspected, but it was impossible that the Virginal book could have been written by the elder Francis Tregian, who (according to Oliver) was the author of the sonnet prefixed to Verstegan's work. If it were not for the dates of the younger Tregian's death and of the composition of Dr Bull's 'Jewel,' it might be conjectured that the MS. was transcribed by the younger Tregian while a prisoner in the Fleet. If this is impossible, there can be but little doubt that it was written by some of his associates, possibly by one of his sisters, who were in England with him. But whoever the actual scribe was, the series of dated pieces by Peter Philipps

(pp. 134—165), who was an English Catholic ecclesiastic settled in the Netherlands, and possibly a connection of Morgan Philipps, one of the first Professors of the Douay College, the note (p. 284) to the Pavana of Byrd's (who was all his life a Catholic), the heading of the jig (p. 306), 'Doctor Bull's myself' (Bull went to Holland in 1613), all point to the conclusion that the collection was formed by some one who was intimate with the Catholic refugees of the period, while the probable connection of the book with the Tregian family, the details of whose misfortunes are more interesting than the above short sketch can convey, lends to it a value beyond that of its musical contents¹.

The earliest account of this collection of Virginal music occurs in the Life of Dr John Bull in Ward's Lives of the Gresham Professors (1740), in which is printed a list of Bull's compositions contained in it. Ward states that his information was derived from Dr Pepusch, who communicated the contents of the volume to him, describing it as 'a large folio neatly written, bound in red Turkey leather, and gilt.' In this no mention is made of the book having belonged to Queen Elizabeth. In 1762 it was bought for 10 guineas at the sale of Dr Pepusch's collection by R. Bremner, who gave it to Lord Fitzwilliam, in whose possession it was in 1783. It is next noticed in Hawkins' History (1776), where it is first stated to have been in Queen Elizabeth's possession. Hawkins also tells the story (repeated by Burney) of Pepusch's wife, Margherita de l'Epine, having attempted to play the music it contained, but although an excellent harpsichord player, never having been able to master the first piece, Bull's Variations on 'Walsingham.' Burney (1789) adds the well-known account of Elizabeth's playing to Sir James Melvil, with the remark that if she could execute any of the pieces in the Virginal Book, she must have been a very great player, as some are so difficult that it would be hard to find a master in Europe who would play them without a month's practice. Burney's acquaintance with the MS. must have been very slight, as he describes Peter Philipps's Fantasia on p. 158 as a regular fugue for the organ. Burney's remarks have been repeated by several writers, amongst others by Steevens, in his notes to 'Winter's Tale' (1803), but with the exception of Mr Chappell's conjecture nothing further has been discovered with regard to the origin or history of the book. A MS. index of its contents was in the possession of Bartleman, and from this a copy was made in 1816 by Henry Smith, and inserted at the end of the original volume. In Warren's edition of Boyce's 'Cathedral Music' (1849), a list of its contents was printed in the notes to the Life of Byrd, but this is in many respects inaccurate. In framing the following list some attempt has been made to give a few references to similar collections in which other copies of the compositions indexed may be found. The principal of these are Benjamin Cosyn's and Will Forster's Books, both in the collection of H. M. the Queen, at Buckingham Palace; Lady Nevell's Book, in the possession of the Marquess of Abergavenny, and the various collections among the Additional MSS. at the British Museum. The compositions mostly consist of airs and variations, the different sections of which are numbered consecutively. Thus the first piece in the book consists of 29 variations on the air 'Walsingham,' but as in the MS. the air itself is numbered '1,' the number of sections is stated in the index to be thirty. The references to Mr Chappell's work are to the edition already mentioned. The spelling of the MS. is generally retained, but in a few instances abbreviations have been omitted.

The music ends on p. 418. At the end of the volume is an index of the contents signed 'Henry Smith Richmond, scripsit, from a MS. Index in the Possession of Mr Bartleman. 24 March, 1816.' In this, pieces, copies of which occur in Lady Nevell's book, are marked with an asterisk.

 'The first one Philips made.'

² Part of p. 176, and pp. 177, 178, 179, and 180 are blank. The numeration of the pieces leaves off here.

³ This piece consists of seventeen quite short sections. At the foot of p. 189 is written 'Perge.'

⁵ In Ward's List.

⁶ In Add. MS. 30,485, a collection of Virginal Music headed 'Extracts from Lady Nevil's Music Book,' but containing much besides, is a 'Felix Namque' by Tallis, against which (in a later hand) is written '1562. In the Virginal Book,' but this is a different composition from either this or the following.

² No. 4 of Giles Farnaby's 'Canzonets to Foure Voyces' (1598) is 'Daphne on the Rainebow.'

³ Chappell, pp. 456, 782, 794.

⁴ In Ward's List.

⁵ Ibid.

⁶ Add. MS. 31,392 (fol. 35) has 'Dowland's Lachrymae' in lute tablature. The tune is to be found in nearly every Elizabethan collection, and is frequently alluded to. It occurs at fol. 71 a of Add. MS. 30,485, and a setting by Cosyn is in his Virginal Book, p. 8. See Chappell, p. 92, and infra, No. 284.

⁷ Occurs as 'Hardings Galliard,' without Byrd's name, in Forster's Book, p. 388. Two fancies by James Harding are in Add. MS. 30,485, ff. 47 and 50.

⁸ In Ward's List.

⁹ Occurs at fol. 113 a of Lady Nevell's Book. A copy is in Add. MS. 31,403.

Nos. 184—197 inclusive are a set of scores copied from the works of Luca Marenzio, printed by Phalèse at Antwerp in 1610, and from other collections printed and ms.

[c. 1780, 29·5 × 23.]

The volumes belonged to Dr Bever, by whose amanuensis, Robert Didsbury, the music was probably transcribed; at the sale of his library by Hindle, in 1798, they were bought by Lord Fitzwilliam. Dr Bever gives the following history of the books in the first of the series:—

² In Novello's edition of Purcell.

⁴ 'From a mss. (sic) in the possession of Mr Wm. Flackton, of Canterbury. The whole copied by Mr Starkey of Oxford, 1783.'

(After an extract from Morley's Introduction, defining a Villanella, he goes on)—'This with 13 other volumes, contains as many of the works of Luca Marenzio as I have hitherto been able to meet with. Some of them have been put into Score from antient printed Parts, bequeathed by that great Patron of Music and all other liberal arts, Dr Henry Aldrich, Dean of Christ Church, to the library of that noble and respectable seminary of polite learning. Others are taken from my own private collection, and the rest were communicated to me in Scores brought from Italy, by Dr Charles Burney, the elegant and ingenious author of a new History of Music.' This is followed by an extract from Hawkins's History concerning Marenzio. The first vol. is entitled 'Di Luca Marenzio Musico Excellentiss. Primo, Secondo, Terzo, Quatro e Quinto Libro delle Villanelle e Canzonette a Tre Voci. Vol. 1.'

Nos. 198—201 are four vols. containing the 'Selectissimae Cantiones' of Orlando di Lasso, copied from the edition of 1579 (the 'subsequent edition' mentioned in Grove's Dictionary, vol. II. p. 97 b). They were 'made into Score from the Antient Parts printed as above (i.e. at Nuremberg) by Robt. Didsbury, 1785, by my special direction, and at my expense. T. B(ever).'

- 2 G 15. Cantiones for six and more voices, forming the first division of the volume called 'Selectissimae Cantiones, a 6 et pluribus,' printed first at Nuremberg in 1568, and subsequently, according to the MS. note, in 1579. A portrait is prefixed to the book, three-quarter face holding music. It is surrounded by an inscription bearing the composer's name and 'D. BAVAR: MVSICVS.' On a tablet at the foot is the following couplet:—

'Quantum exit melicâ reliquos Orlandus in arte Aetheriis propior tantum abit ille choria.'

(Nos. 202—207 are a set of volumes containing 37 duets and trios, entitled 'Madrigals,' by Clari. Almost all the compositions are dated, and have references to (probably) the first edition of the duets. The first of these volumes contains the first and second duets belonging to three 'books,' the second volume contains the third and fourth of the same set, and so on, twelve duets being numbered as contained in each book. The dates of publication are as follows: Book i. 1740—1; Book ii. (for three voices) 1742, 3; Book iii. 1745—7.)

TRIUMPH OF TIME AND TRUTH.

6 I 1. There are three different editions published of this work by the H.-G.; one is the version originally brought out in Rome in 1708, the others are those produced in 1737 and 1757 in London.

pp. 1—8. The first eight pages ($8\frac{1}{2}'' \times 11\frac{1}{4}''$) of this MS. headed 'Sonata' contain an arrangement of a portion of the overture, very different in construction, and also written for a larger orchestra than that published at H.-G. xxiv. 3.

At the end of the eighth page there is a reference mark used frequently by Handel, showing that the continuation of this 'Sonata' was to be found elsewhere.

pp. 9—16. Eight pages ($9'' \times 11\frac{1}{2}''$) of the original score of the 1737 revival of the work, which give a different arrangement from that published at the end of H.-G. xxiv. They commence with the last ten bars on p. 105 H.-G. and continue to the end of the solo on p. 106. This is immediately followed by the air 'Vengo il Tempo' on p. 42 H.-G. and 'Crede l' uom' on p. 44. Then follows a Duett Recit. between 'Tempo and Bellaza' (also written Bellazza) which is very similar to that found at H.-G. xxiv. 47, in the printed copy 'Tempo' is written for a Tenor, here it is for an Alto.

Then follows an air for 'Tempo' to the words 'Folle dunque,' very different indeed to that at H.-G. xxiv. 47. It seems to be founded on the solo on p. 26. Then comes a very different version of the Duett Recit. at H.-G. xxiv. 50.

These pages show unmistakeably that although there are three published versions of the work, still other arrangements were at different times made of the work, to suit particular circumstances, such as the presence of certain singers, or the like.

pp. 17—20. These four pages (9" × 11½") do not belong to the eight foregoing, but they contain a version of the chorus to be found at H.-G. xx. 128. It is merely a vocal score (no accompaniment) with Italian words commencing 'Pria che sii converta in polve' (the same chorus is published with English and German words in H.-G. xx.). This is probably the chorus referred to (but not printed) at H.-G. xxiv. 116.

pp. 21—26. Five upright folio pages (and one page blank) (17" × 10¾") of another version of the same work.

The first page is an arrangement of the Fugue at H.-G. xx. 128, and is referred to at H.-G. xxiv. 116.

The second page has a new beginning for the Double Fugue at H.-G. xxiv. 99.

The various fragments on page 3 are at present unidentified.

The Symphony on the four lower lines of the last page is another version of the Symphony to be found at H.-G. xx. 18 and H.-G. xxxvi. 87.

These five pages are of great interest.

ESTHER.

Three pages and one blank (9" × 11½") of the original score of the 1720 version of this oratorio.

pp. 27—30. 'Dread not, righteous Queen,' the well-known air for Mordecai, with the exception of two bars, the same as that printed at H.-G. xl. 46, 7.

At the top of the first page of this solo Handel has pencilled the word 'Low;' this probably refers to the performance of this air by Thomas Lowe, a celebrated tenor singer who made his first public appearance in 1740, and ultimately became the original singer of some of the parts in Handel's Oratorios. This copy was therefore most likely used by Handel after 1740, although written about 1720.

pp. 31—36. Six pages ($16'' \times 10\frac{3}{4}''$) of the score of the 1732 version as printed in H.-G. xli. 10—18. These pages contain alterations of the vocal part by Smith, which were attached over the original.

p. 31. The Recit. 'Breathe soft ye gales' appears by a pencil note at the top of the page to have been at one time sung by Mrs Arne; she was a Miss Cecilia Young, and became the wife of the well-known Dr Arne in 1736.

p. 34. The air 'Watchful angels' (as printed in H.-G. xli. 18) is in the writing of Smith; Handel has himself added some pencil notes and alterations showing that the solo was to be performed in different keys; it was sung by Sig^r Conti (a celebrated sopranist who first appeared in England in 1736), and, on another occasion, by Mrs Arne. He has also added Italian words commencing 'Pure menti amico ciel.'

p. 35. Two versions, one written by Smith, the other (attached over Smith's) by Handel, are here given of the Recitative 'O King of Kings,' both printed at H.-G. xli. 20 and 32. (At the end is a direction for the Coronation Anthem, 'My heart is inditing,' to be performed, and possibly on another occasion, 'Praise the Lord with cheerful voice,' a tenor solo in the 1720 version of the work, to be found in H.-G. xl. 27.)

p. 36. The Symphony of the 'Alleluja' as printed in H.-G. xli. 20, written by Smith with directions for different orchestration from that published. At the commencement of the Solo, Handel has written in pencil 'Sig^{ra} Francesina,' a celebrated singer whose first public appearance was in 1738.

pp. 37, 38. Two pages ($9'' \times 11\frac{1}{4}''$) of the last chorus 'The Lord our enemy has slain' printed in H.-G. xli. 122.

pp. 39—42. Four pages ($9\frac{1}{8}'' \times 11\frac{1}{2}''$) of one of the 'revivals' of Esther, consisting of the last sixteen bars of a soprano solo in common time, with an accompaniment for oboes and strings, the last words being 'Se la palma vuol aver.' This is then followed by directions for an Allegro in $\frac{3}{4}$ time to the words 'Spira un aura,' but the music is not given. This again is directed to be followed by a repetition of the previous solo (as if a Da Capo) of which we have only 16 bars. After this is a soloist's copy of the solo and chorus, 'The Lord our enemy has slain,' in H.-G. xli. 122, but this copy only goes as far as page 138 (H.-G.), that being the end of the solo part. The music of the solo in this MS. is very different from the printed (H.-G.) copy, the latter being for second soprano while this is written for first soprano, the alteration and different music being so written that the chorus parts can be—as of course they were—used with this solo. The only accompaniment here given is an unfigured Bass with tutti marks and rests for the voice while the tutti lasts. At the right hand corner of p. 41 is written '19' or 'ig,' while at the top of p. 42 is written '5½.'

ATHALIAH.

pp. 43—50. Eight pages (17" × 11") of one of the alterations of this work, possibly made for one of the performances in London.

From a notice at the top of the page it seems that this unpublished Duett and eight-part Chorus, 'When storms the proud to Terrours doom,' followed the Recitative Duett at H.-G. v. 81, ending with the words 'This festival with joy,' after which came the "Hallelujah Chorus" as printed on p. 86 (H.-G.), the air 'Gloomy tyrants' on p. 82 (H.-G.), being omitted. The words used in this Duett and Chorus appear in a Solo on p. 29 (H.-G.), the music to which is very similar but in a different key.

This portion of the alteration of the work is neither published nor referred to in the preface to the work H.-G. v.

WEDDING ANTHEM.

pp. 51—54. Four pages (9½" × 11½") of the original score of the Anthem, arranged for the Wedding of the Princess Royal, March 14, 1734, and formed upon music previously written for 'Athaliah,' and also 'Triumph of Time and Truth.' This Chorus 'Lo thus shall the man be blessed' will be found in H.-G. xxx. 95, and is certainly based upon 'Ere to dust is chang'd thy beauty' in H.-G. xx. 182 ('Triumph of Time and Truth').

The original score, and the conducting score written by Smith, are both lost; these four pages are therefore the only fragment of the original in existence.

252.

ITALIAN CANTATAS.

- 6 I 2. p. 1. ($11\frac{1}{2}'' \times 9\frac{5}{8}''$.) A movement of a Cantata, 'Gia respira in petto il core:' for an Alto voice, in the key of E \flat , used as a Soprano solo in the key of B \flat in the Opera 'Silla' and to be found in H.-G. lxi. 47.
- pp. 2—3. An Alto Solo 'E Tempo luci belle' in the key of G minor; also used in the Opera 'Silla,' and to be found in H.-G. lxi. 26.
- The last part of the Air and the previous Symphony are very different from the published edition.
- p. 4. An unpublished movement of a Cantata for Soprano, 'Non so se avrai mai bene:' in the key of C minor.
- pp. 5—6. A movement of a Cantata, 'Cari lacci amate pene:' for an Alto in the key of D minor. In the volume of Cantatas (H.-G. l.) this movement is printed on pp. 56 and 164 in a different key and for Soprano voice; the music is also different in various places.
- pp. 7—8. A movement of a Cantata, 'Fra pensieri quel pensiero:' for an Alto, in the key of F major, printed (with slight differences) in H.-G. l. 94.
- pp. 9—10. ($9'' \times 11\frac{1}{2}''$.) A copy of the movement 'Dolce pur d' amor l' affanno' (H.-G. l. 68). This copy in the key of E major, with the vocal ornaments used in the performance of the work but not inserted in the printed copy, is not in Handel's writing, although the title 'Cantata del—' was written by him.
- pp. 11—14. 'Dolce pur d' amor l' affanno,' the complete Cantata as printed in H.-G. l. 68. This copy also has many of the unpublished vocal ornaments as found in the copy on pp. 9—10 of this volume; in other respects it agrees entirely with the printed copy.

From a small piece being left at the right-hand corner of p. 11 it is seen that the paper was originally larger than at present.

pp. 15—19. 'Son gelsomino,' the complete Cantata for Alto, in the key of G major. Both harmony and melody differ slightly from the printed copy in H.-G. li. 125.

p. 20 blank.

pp. 21—24. 'Bella ma ritrossetta.' An unpublished Cantata in three movements for Soprano, commencing in the key of C minor:—

'Bella ma ritrossetta.'

'Oh quanto godo in rimirarti spesso.' A Recit. in the key of D major.

'Mi rido di veder,' in the key of G minor. This movement is written on a portion of a page $6\frac{5}{8}'' \times 11\frac{1}{2}''$.

pp. 25—26. ($11\frac{1}{2}'' \times 9''$.) A Cantata in three or four movements, or four movements from different Cantatas, all at present unpublished.

'Impari del mio core,' for Soprano, in the key of F major.

'Quanto invidio,' for Soprano, in the key of G minor.

'Per dar pace al mio tormento,' for Soprano, marked 'Largo,' in the key of A minor.

A 'Larghetto,' for Alto in the key of F. No words.

A fragment, on the two lower lines of p. 26, in the key of F appears to be the end of a solo and chorus, at present unidentified.

These movements and fragments may have been intended for one of the performances of 'Triumph of Time and Truth.'

pp. 27—28. 'Dell' onda instabile,' an unpublished movement in the key of A minor for Alto, with accompaniment for harpsichord and violin.

On the two lower lines of p. 28 is an unrecognized Treble and Bass in the key of C major. It may be the subject or commencement of a florid allegro to follow the previous movement, as some of the upper part is written in the alto clef, with small pieces inserted for the violin accompaniment.

pp. 29—31. Recit. 'Dolce bocca.' Air, 'Per involarmi.' Two movements of a Cantata, printed in H.-G. li. 116. The notes only of the Recit. are written by Handel, but the Air is by some unknown hand with alterations by Handel himself, which are not inserted in the printed copy.

p. 32 blank.

- p. 33. "Ye youthful swains.' The words only of a proposed Cantata for Tenor, in the key of C. This is one of the very few examples of even a contemplated Cantata written to English words.
- p. 34. 'La Marche,' at present unpublished, in the key of D, the subject of which was ultimately used in the 'chorus of Asiatics' in Alexander Balus on p. 5.

This March, written for two Trebles and a Bass, the 2nd Treble being marked 'Horn 2,' was undoubtedly used as an independent piece previous to the composition of Alexander Balus in 1747, as another copy of the 2nd Horn part will be found on p. 78 of no. 263, in the writing of Smith, showing that a copy had been made for use in performance.

ITALIAN DUETTS.

- 6 I 3. pp. 1—8. ($11\frac{1}{2}'' \times 8\frac{3}{4}''$.) 'Duetto' (incomplete). 'Quando in calma ride' (H.-G. xxxii. 75). This copy is nine bars short.

The signature 'di G. F. Hendel' at the top of the right-hand corner of p. 1 is written in different ink from that used in the music of the Duett. During his residence in Italy (1706—1710) he usually signed his name as G. F. Hendel. These Duetts were either written before or during that period.

- pp. 9—15. ($11\frac{1}{2}'' \times 9''$.) Duett. 'Che vai pensando, folle pensier' (H.-G. xxxii. 45).

The same as the printed version with the slight difference of having only three sharps for the key signature, all the D#s being written as accidentals; in the printed copy there are four sharps in the signature. The time directions are also omitted in the printed copy. At the top of p. 9 is written in different ink, as before, 'Allegro mà non presto. G. F. Hend...' The 'el' has been cut away by a previous binder.

- p. 16 blank.

- pp. 17—23. Duett. 'Amor gioje mi porge' (H.-G. xxxii. 52). At the top of p. 17 is written 'di G. F. Hendel.' This copy agrees generally with the printed edition but bears marks of extensive alterations in words as well as in music. The 2nd movement is marked 'Adagio' and the 3rd movement 'Andante;' these time directions are not in the H.-G. edition of the Duetts.

pp. 25—32. ($11\frac{1}{2}'' \times 8\frac{3}{4}''$.) 'Duetto di G. F. Handel.' 'Tacete, ohimè, tacete' (H.-G. xxxii. 81).

In this copy Handel has directed the first movement to be repeated after the second movement; there is no direction for such an arrangement of movements in the printed copy. In these first two movements the key signature consists of two flats, not three as printed.

pp. 33—44. ($10\frac{3}{4}'' \times 8\frac{1}{2}''$.) Duett. 'Tanti strali al sen mi scocchi' (H.-G. xxxii. 94).

This copy agrees with that printed but bears signs of extensive alterations. The third movement is headed 'Allegro,' which does not appear in the printed copy.

pp. 45—51. ($8'' \times 11\frac{1}{2}''$.) Duett. 'Sono liete, fortunate' (H.-G. xxxii. 31).

This and the following Duett are the only two written on the small folio paper. It agrees with the printed copy but has extensive alterations and is signed in the right-hand corner of p. 45 'di G. F. Hendel.'

p. 52 blank.

pp. 53—59. Duett. 'Conservate raddoppiate' (H.-G. xxxii. 89).

This copy shows that Handel originally wrote the music to other words than those printed, the latter being an addition.

At the commencement of the lower line on p. 55 Handel has written 'coro.' It may at one time have been the intention of the composer to have, from this point to the end of the Duett, performed it as a Chorus.

pp. 57—60 are slightly different in size, having in all probability been cut by the binder.

p. 60 blank.

pp. 61—70. Duett (incomplete). 'A mirarvi' (H.-G. xxxii. 68).

This Duett, written on oblong paper $13\frac{1}{4}'' \times 9\frac{3}{8}''$, wants three bars at the end.

In the printed copy a short symphony of two bars precedes the vocal part. In this MS. the vocal part begins at once (without the short symphony) and goes on to the end of the first movement, where the two bars are inserted (printed as coming before the commencement), implying that the Symphony only came in at the repetition of the movement and not as printed. There are also many corrections or alterations as in the other Duetta.

RINALDO.

- 30 H 4 p. 1. ($11\frac{3}{8}'' \times 9''$). 'Atto 1. Sc. 1.' Recit. 'Delle nostre fatiche,' as printed in H.-G. lviii. 4.
 p. 2. Solo. 'Sovra balze scoscesi e pungenti' (H.-G. lviii. 4).
 p. 6. Recit. 'Signor, gia dal tuo sennuo' (H.-G. p. 6).
 p. 9. Solo. 'Combatti da forte' (H.-G. p. 7).

This page is marked '2' showing it was the second sheet of the score.

- p. 15. Recit. 'Questi saggi consigli,' and Solo 'Ogni induggo d' un amante' (H.-G. p. 10).

This Solo is incomplete.

- p. 17. Recit. 'Qual incognita forza' (H.-G. p. 54).

This was probably the commencement of the second sheet of the second act, the '2' being written at the top as on p. 9.

- p. 18. Solo. 'Il Tricerbero umiliato' (H.-G. p. 54).

pp. 21—23 (p. 24 blank). These pages are not placed in their proper order because they are an after-thought. The Recit. at the top of p. 21 commencing 'Onde all' auredi' is an altered ending of the Recit. 'Signor, strano ardimento' as originally written on p. 25.

The 'Aria' 'Scorta rea di cieco amore' as on p. 66 of H.-G.

- p. 25. Recit. 'Signor, strano ardimento.' From this MS. it is easily seen that the two Recitatives 'Signor, strano ardimento' and 'Ciò fu indegna vittoria' on pp. 56 and 57 (H.-G.) were originally continuous, the Air 'Scorta rea' (on p. 56 H.-G. and p. 21 of this MS.) being inserted afterwards.

pp. 26—29. Solo. 'Mio cor, che mi sai dir' (p. 58 of H.-G.).
p. 29 is marked with a '3' showing it was the third sheet of the second act.

pp. 30, 31. Recit. 'Armida dispietata!' as printed on p. 60 of H.-G.

pp. 31—33. Solo. 'Lascia ch' io pianga,' as on p. 61
of H.-G.

The MS. and the printed copy (H.-G.) differ with regard to the position of this Air. In the printed copy it comes at the end of the Duett Recit. (pp. 60, 61 H.-G.) while in the MS. it comes in the middle, and the Duett Recit. is continued as printed after the Air is finished.

p. 33. Recit. 'Tu del mio cor Reina.' The continuation of the Duett Recit., printed (on p. 60 H.-G.) as coming before the Air.

Here the MS. again appears to be different from the printed copy, Almirena's short Recit. 'Dunque lascia mi piangere' on p. 61, H.-G. is continued by Argante, 'Ti consola o mia vita' &c. which introduces the air 'Basta che sol tu chiedi' on p. 62 (H.-G.).

p. 38. 'Scena 5.' Recit. 'Cingetemi d' alloros' on p. 63
H.-G. as 'Scena VI.'

pp. 38—41. 'Scena 6' commencing 'Perfida un cor illustre' on p. 63 H.-G.

pp. 42—44. The Duett (incomplete) 'Fermati' as on p. 65
H.-G.

p. 45. Marked '6' is a part of the Solo 'Dunque i lacci d' un volto' as on p. 70 H.-G.

Shows that the Air 'Ah! Crudel' on p. 72 H.-G. originally began pp. 46—53 without the Bassoon solo, the symphony being thus three bars shorter than printed (H.-G.).
The improved and lengthened symphony (i.e. as printed) was afterwards added and attached over the first two bars of the original symphony (i.e. without Bassoon solo). The Bassoon solo instead of having the name of the instrument at the commencement of the line has the name of the performer, viz. Mr Kentson.

p. 53. 'Scena 9.' 'Riprendiam d' Almirena' as on p. 76
H.-G.

p. 54. 'Scena 10' (incomplete) 'Adorata Almirena' as on
p. 76 H.-G.

p. 55. Marked '2' is a part of the solo 'Andate, oh forti' on p. 84 H.-G.

pp. 55—60. The MS. continues as printed, up to the end of the fifth line on p. 87 (H.-G.), when we meet with another correction or insertion, viz. 'NB Aria,' showing that the Air 'Sorge nel patto' was an after-thought; the Recit. (in this MS.) is continued but differs from that at the commencement of p. 88 (H.-G.), although both the MS. and printed copy end in the same way. The MS. continues as printed till we come to the 'March' on p. 92 (H.-G.), where the MS. differs entirely (for the first part of the March) from the printed copy.

The other parts of this original score of Rinaldo are known to be in the Royal Collection at Buckingham Palace, given by Smith (Handel's amanuensis) to George III.

The last page in this volume is a copy of the Air 'Molto voglio' (p. 29 H.-G.) which Handel probably wrote for publication by Walsh.

CHANDOS ANTHEM.

30 H 5. 'O praise the Lord with one consent.' A copy of the best known of these Anthems written for the Duke of Chandos and published in H.-G. xxxv. 98.

This copy is practically the same as that published, the differences being few and slight. The key signature in the MS. has only two flats for the choruses and solo as printed on pp. 100, 123 and 144 H.-G. All the A flats in the choruses are marked as accidentals, while in the printed copy the key signature has three flats. The commencement of the vocal part of the chorus on p. 100 H.-G. is marked as a short solo (only four notes), but there appears to be no authority for this in the MS.

The oboe ought to play in unison with the violin in the solo on p. 119 H.-G. 'That God is great;' the H.-G. copy omits this detail.

RODRIGO.

30 H 6. pp. 1, 2. This incomplete Solo 'Fra le spine' will be found on p. 48 of H.-G. lvi. It is not only in a different key but also very different in construction from that published, and seems to be in a later handwriting than that of the date of the opera, viz. 1707.

ACIS AND GALATEA.

pp. 3—6. Four pages of this work; they may have been alterations and additions for the London performance of 1732, or that at Oxford in 1733. These various pieces are not printed. They are as follows:—Allegro in B \flat for Soprano with accompaniment for Violin and Bass, to the words 'Del Mar fra l' onde.'—Recit. 'Gal.' for Sopr. with Bass accompaniment 'Ma il mio poter divino'—this is intended to be followed by a 'Coro.' Duett Recit. in G for Acis and Galatea, both Sopranos, commencing 'Ma qual horrido suono'—intended to be accompanied by Violini, Viole and Basso. This is followed by a Recit. (really in the key of E \flat) for Polifemo 'Au vampo mi struggo.' The last Recit. is undoubtedly based on the well-known Recit. 'I rage, I melt, I burn.'

p. 7. A first thought for the chorus, as printed in H.-G. iii. 9.

p. 8 blank.

pp. 9—16. The chorus 'Happy we' as printed on p. 123, H.-G., signed at the end 'Fine dell Atto I^{mo}.' In pencil Handel has added 'end,' as if the work at one time finished with this number.

IL PASTOR FIDO.

A part of the original score, marked $\frac{9}{16}$ and 11.

pp. 17—32. This commences at the Solo 'Ritorna adesso Amor' on p. 50, and continues to p. 59 of H.-G. lix., but the solo for Dorinda, on p. 55, H.-G., is not in this MS.

pp. 33, 34. The 1st movement of an Overture. It is printed in Wright's Collection of Handel's Overtures as the 2nd overture in Pastor Fido, but it is not published in H.-G. lix. Here it is scored for horns, hautbois, and strings, whereas in the H.-G. edition of the opera horns are not used at all. This portion of overture probably belongs to one of the revivals of the opera, as does the following solo.

pp. 35, 36, "Fato crudo." This copy of the solo not only appears to be incomplete, but is also totally different to that published on p. 13, H.-G.

SILLA.

pp. 37—40. Four pages of the original score of this Opera; they will be found on p. 23, H.-G. lxi. The words 'Il Dio' crossed out and 'Astagorre' inserted instead, are retained in the H.-G. edition, and the direction for the violins to play alone on p. 39 of MS. is not noticed in that edition.

AMADIGI.

pp. 41—43. A copy of the Air 'O caro mio tesoro' on p. 34, H.-G. lxii.

This seems to be a copy of the air for the soloist to study the song from, as it only has a figured Bass for accomp., and the vocal part is more florid than that printed; also it is headed 'Aria dell' opera d' Amadigi,' which seems to imply that the opera was already composed before this copy was written.

The symphony between the 1st and 2nd parts of the solo is longer in the printed copy than here.

RADAMISTO.

pp. 45—51 (p. 49 blank). The duett 'Non ò piu affanni' (p. 201, H.-G. lxiii.) appears to be a part of one of the altered versions of the opera. This copy is complete, but it shows how carefully Handel criticized his own works. The bar crossed out on p. 47, and marked 'N.B. l'addition,' refers to the music on pp. 50, 51, after which it goes back to p. 47 and finishes as printed.

p. 52 blank.

OTTONE.

Eight pages of a sheet of the original score of this work, the loss of which caused the H.-G. edition of the opera to be issued in an incomplete state.

pp. 53—60. Begins in the Recit. on p. 68, H.-G. lxvi., and supplies the missing viola part, the music to the air 'S' or mi dai pene' and the whole of the Scena ix., all of which were left out of the H.-G. edition.

- pp. 61, 62. A copy of the air 'Le profonde' on p. 72, H.-G., which gives the unpublished viola part to the Ritornelli.
- p. 63. An unpublished fragment of Scena XI. will be found commencing on line 5, bar 2 of p. 77, H.-G. This MS. has a short symphony of five bars between two sentences of the Recit., which seems to show that the Recit. was not as printed, but an accompanied Recitative.
- p. 64 blank.

JULIUS CÆSAR.

- pp. 65, 66. A very different setting of Cleopatra's solo 'Piangerò la sorte mia,' from that on p. 100, H.-G. lxviii. This copy is complete in one movement, with the usual Da Capo, while that published is in two movements. It is also in a different key, and has a part for violas. It must have been written for one of the repeated performances of the opera, when it seems to have been the usual custom to have some of the airs, &c. altered, but this alteration is not referred to in the preface to H.-G. lxviii.
- pp. 67—72. The Duett Recit. 'Reina! infausti' and Air 'La Speranza' published on p. 139, H.-G. These six pages are written by Smith, with a few alterations by Handel.

The Duett Recit. is as printed, but the solo 'La Speranza' is different. It is published in the Appendix in two different keys, F and G, 'to suit the various capacities of singers,' but this copy is written in the key of A.

RODELINDA.

- pp. 73—76. The Overture of the work on p. 1, H.-G. lxx. This may have been a copy written for the harpsichord, or for publication. At the end of this copy Handel has 'written out' in German (ausgeschrieben) implying that the score was all written.
- p. 77. A copy of the Minuet of this overture on p. 75.
- The writing of this Minuet is of a different character from the previous four pages, and more resembles that of the chamber music; possibly the movement may have been taken from one of the suites, and used as a minuet in this overture.
- p. 78 blank.

SCIPIONE.

30 H 7. This Opera was brought out March 12th, 1726. In the year 1730 it was reproduced with extensive alterations.

The pieces here preserved are portions of the 1726 edition of the work, written by Smith (Handel's amanuensis), with the alterations required for the 1730 edition.

pp. 1—4 in Smith's writing, were probably re-written for the 1730 edition, as the air 'Libera chi non è,' was an insertion on that occasion. On the second page, at the commencement of the third line, Handel has himself added 'N.B.', showing that some alteration was here intended; also on the fourth line at the end of Scipione's Recit. he has written 'Aria.' Possibly these were alterations for a still later performance. These pages commence on p. 18 of lxxi. H.-G. and continue to the end of the second line, p. 19, with the commencement of the inserted solo printed on p. 126, H.-G.

pp. 5—6 of the MS. will be found on p. 37, H.-G., but in the printed copy the part of Rosalba is suppressed, and in some cases her part is sung by one of the other characters. The MS. here bears marks of the 1730 alterations.

pp. 7—20 of the MS. is a part of Berenice's solo, 'Com' onda incalza altr' onda,' and continuation of the opera commencing at bar 2, p. 51, H.-G., continuing to the end of p. 56, H.-G. This extract is all in Smith's writing.

pp. 22—24. A commencement of the 3rd Act, which is not published or referred to in any way. The writing is neither Handel's nor Smith's.

pp. 23—24. As printed on p. 73, H.-G. and in Smith's writing.

pp. 25—28 (still in Smith's writing) will be found on p. 76, H.-G.

pp. 29—32 (Smith's writing) will be found commencing on the lower line of p. 83, H.-G. Handel has here made an important alteration in the ending of the Recit., evidently preparing for the air from 'Riccardo,' which was to follow. It is evident from the inscription at the end of p. 32 of the

MS. viz. 'Fine dell' atto secondo,' that this was the original plan of the opera, p. 33 of the MS. being headed 'Atto Terzo.' pp. 33—44 (still in Smith's writing) with pencil and pen alterations by Handel will be found on p. 88, H.-G. The Recit. name for Rosalba on p. 44 of the MS. is printed on p. 131, H.-G.

pp. 45—52 principally in the writing of Smith, Handel having written the other parts and made corrections, most of them being in the H.-G. edition, will be found as part of the appendix of the opera, on p. 117, H.-G.

pp. 53—54 is an arrangement of the Bass air on p. 132, H.-G. This copy is entirely in the writing of Handel, but arranged for an Alto voice with occasional alterations in the music, and very different words to those published. It seems to be written for the alto vocalist to study her part.

RICCARDO PRIMO.

pp. 55—57. The Overture of the opera. It may either be a part written for the harpsichord, or for the publisher.

p. 58 blank.

p. 59. Probably a portion of the original score; it will be found in H.-G. lxxiv. 36.

p. 60 blank.

LOTARIO.

p. 61. An additional Scena for the important character of Adelaide. It consists of a Recit., and very incomplete Solo, but it is not mentioned in the H.-G. edition of the opera.

p. 62 blank.

PARNASSO IN FESTA.

pp. 63, 64. The first part of the Overture to this work, the same (with the exception of a slight alteration in two bars) as published in H.-G. liv. 1.

pp. 65—69. A copy of the Solo on p. 71, H.-G., with directions for the Chorus 'O quanto bella gloria' to follow. At the commencement of this solo Handel has written the name of the artist, Maria Negri, instead of the character.

ARIODANTE.

30 H 8. pp. 1—2. ($19\frac{1}{8}'' \times 11\frac{1}{2}''$.) 'Musette.' One of the dance pieces at the end of the first Act, printed in H.-G. lxxxv. 59.

This copy is probably a portion of the original score.

pp. 3—8. 'Entrée des Songes agréables,' a series of pieces originally intended as an ending to the second Act, but ultimately used in 'Alcina' (H.-G. lxxxvi. 106).

The preparation on p. 8 for Ginevra's short agitated Recit., mentioned in the preface to Ariodante (H.-G. lxxxv.), shows that this MS. was originally intended for 'Ariodante;' it will also be seen on p. 6, that the movement called 'Le combat des songes funestes et agréables' was at first shorter than that published in H.-G.

ALESSANDRO SEVERO.

pp. 9—12. Four pages of the Overture, commencing at bar 14 of the Allegro.

This work is not yet printed by the H.-G.

IMENEO.

p. 13. The first movement of the Overture as printed in H.-G. xciii. 1.

p. 14. Five bars of an unrecognized fragment in $\frac{3}{2}$ time, in the key of Bb, written in the Soprano, Tenor, and Bass Clefs.

The writer of the preface to the H.-G. edition of this Opera says: 'Handel's autograph is so incomplete, that it is impossible to discover from it even the number of acts.' The following important pieces are undoubtedly portions of the original score, supposed to be lost.

pp. 15—18. The copy of 'Se potessero i sospir' miei,' as in H.-G. xciii. 8. Slightly different from that published, and has the appearance on p. 15 of being pencil-marked for one of the bars to be repeated.

pp. 19—23. Duett, 'Vado e vivo,' for Rosmene and Tirinto, to follow Imeneo's solo, 'Esser mia dovrà la bella tortorella,' in H.-G. xciii. 38; neither words nor music of this Duett could be printed in the H.-G. edition of this Opera because they were 'wanting.'

This Duett is the same, with slight differences, as occurs in 'Faramondo' (H.-G. xci. 80).

p. 25—27. Solo for Clomiri, 'Se ricordar ten vuoi.' There are two different settings of the same Solo given to these words in the H.-G. edition of the work, but this differs from them both.

p. 28 blank.

pp. 29—32. Solo for Clomiri, 'Se d' amore amanti siete,' in the key of C minor, $1\frac{2}{3}$ time, neither printed nor referred to in the H.-G. edition. Possibly it fills the gap on p. 19 (H.-G.). This Solo is accompanied by Strings and Flutes; in the published score the latter instruments are not used at all.

pp. 33—34. A study for the Chorus, 'These pleasures, melancholy give,' from 'L' Allegro, il Pensieroso, ed il Moderato.' It will be found very differently worked out in H.-G. vi. 135.

On the top line of p. 34 is a Recit. 'Dal di, ch'io la perdei,' to be found in H.-G. (Imeneo) xciii. 10, which seems to be intended to be performed before the repetition of the air 'La mia bella.'

The presence of studies for both 'Imeneo' and 'Allegro' on the same piece of paper, fits in with the fact previously known, that Handel was engaged on these works at the same time.

JUPITER IN ARGOS.

The Recitatives, with directions for the Solos for portions of the above Opera, which was known to be advertised for performance, although no record can be found of its having taken place. The characters are—

Diana.....Soprano.

Calisto „

Iside „

Arete.....Tenor.

ErgastoBass.

Licaone..... „

p. 35. 'Atto 2, Scena 1, Luogo boscareccio con capanne, ruscelli, ed amenità di colline,' opens with a Chorus, 'Care selve' (the music not being in this MS.). This is followed by a Recit. by Licaone, 'Imbelli Dei; su via scagliate,' with a direction 'Aria, Licaone, Affanno Tiranno ex Cantata.' This may mean that the Cantata, 'Un affanno più tiranno,' H.-G. l. 129, is to be performed here (possibly in the key of G minor), as there is no Cantata, 'Affanno Tiranno,' in the volumes at present published.

'Scena 2' commences with a chorus of hunters, 'O quanto bella gloria' (H.-G. (Parnasso in festa) liv. 61), followed by a Recit. for Diana, 'Della gran caccia fide.' This is to be followed by the Air in the key of G, 'Non ingannarmi, nò conforto del mio sen,' in Faramondo, H.-G. xci. 54, 'poi, replica una parte.....'

- p. 36. 'Scena 3' opens with a Solo for Iside, 'Dite dovè, che fà' (H.-G., Tolomeo, lxxvi. 46) followed by the Recit. for the same character, 'Fra il silenzio.' After this Recit. the Air, 'Dite dovè, che fà,' is repeated.

'Scena 4, Arete ed Iside che dorme,' begins with a Recit. for Arete, 'Iside qui fra dolce,' followed by the Air 'Deh ! v'aprite' (H.-G., Teseo, lx. 74), to be performed in the key of F.

- p. 37. The Recit. is continued as a Duett for Iside and Arete, the former leading off with 'Olà chi mi soccorre.' This is followed by the Air for Iside, 'Da tuoi begl' occhi impara' (H.-G., Giustino, lxxxiii. 13), and then the Duetto, 'Vado e vivo,' in the key of A (H.-G., Faramondo, xci. 80).
- p. 38. 'Scena 5.' Calisto sings the Aria, 'Tutta raccolta ancor' (H.-G., Scipione, lxxi. 41), followed by the Recit. 'Abbi pietoso Cielo.'

'Scena 6.' Ergasto and Calisto sing a Duett Recit., 'Alfin eccomi a quello meta,' to be followed by an Aria for Calisto from Giustino to the words, 'Mio caro amato padre,' but no such words are used in that or any other Opera.

- p. 39. 'Scena 7.' Erasto (i.e. Ergasto) and Arete have a Duett Recit., 'Credo, che quella bella,' which is followed by an Aria for Arete, 'Simplicetto! a donna credi?' from Alcina (H.-G. lxxxvi. 38).
- p. 40. 'Scena 8, Erasto Solo,' Recit. 'Che intesi mai!' followed by the Aria 'Al par della mia sorte,' from Arminio (H.-G. lxxxix. 16).
- p. 41. 'Scena 9, Iside Solo,' Recit. 'Una cara promessa dell odio mio,' followed by the Aria, 'Combattuta da due venti,' from Faramondo (H.-G. xci. 62).

p. 42 blank.

pp. 43—46. Complete Aria for Diana, with string accompaniment, 'In braccio al tuo spavento.'

p. 47. 'Atto 3^o, Scena 5^a.' A Recit. for Calisto (written 'Callisto'), 'Priva d' ogni conforto invendicato il Padre,' to be followed by an Aria for Calisto, 'Ah! non son io che parlo.' This must be from Ezio (H.-G. lxxx. 103).

p. 48 blank.

p. 49. Recit. for Soprano, 'Non è d' un alma grande,' at the end of which is 'Segue il coro, S' unisca al tuo martiro.' This chorus is evidently from 'Il Pastor Fido' (H.-G. liv. 83).

p. 50 blank.

pp. 51—53. The final Solo (Iside) and Chorus to the words 'Al gaudio al riso al canto si volga il nostro cor,' signed at the end—'Fine dell Opera, Jupiter in Argos. April 24, 1739.'

p. 54 blank.

DEIDAMIA.

p. 55. A portion of the Solo, 'Un guardo solo,' in H.-G. xciv. 52. From the pagination ($\frac{1}{2}$) at the right-hand corner, it seems probable that this page formed a portion of the original score, although the music in its published state is very different. This piece begins at the last bar on p. 52 of H.-G.

p. 56 blank.

pp. 57—60, sheet '12' of the original score. The Solo, 'Va, perfido,' as printed in H.-G. xciv. 88. The Duett Recit., 'Aspetta,' on the last page (p. 60) of this sheet commences differently from the published version of the same on p. 92 of H.-G.

OLIBRIO.

Portions of an Opera containing parts for the following characters:

Eudossia.....	Soprano.
Flacilla	„
Onorico.....	„
Placidia	„
Olibrio	Contralto.
Elmige	Bass.
Genserico	„

pp. 61—62. The first page is marked '2,' and is probably a part of the 2nd Scena, 1st Act.

Quartett or doubled Duett in the key of F, to the words, 'Applaudo ognuno l' Eroe sovrano,' scored for Strings, Horns, and Oboes.

pp. 63—65 (page sixty-five, marked '3'). A Solo for Bass, Genserico, "Quando contento di straggi io sia," in the key of D minor, at the end of which is written 'parte Genserico con il seguito, restano Onorico ed Elmige.'

pp. 66—71. 'Scena 3. Onorico ed Elmige.' This Scena begins with a Duett Recit., 'Tu non ti affretti o prence,' between the two characters, but only the words are written; it is followed on p. 67 by an Aria for Soprano, in the key of G, triple time (probably Onorico), 'Di pur se il cor si piega,' with ordinary string accompaniment.

pp. 71—72. On the second line of this page is 'Scena 4, Cabinetto, Flacilla da una parte e Placidia dall'altra.' The words only, beginning 'Hai veduto o Placidia,' of this short Scena are written.

p. 72. 'Scena 5. Olibrio e detti.' An incomplete Duett Recit., words only, commencing 'Eudossia o Principesse,' for Olibrio and Flacilla.

pp. 73—74. (page seventy-three is marked '6.') The later portion of Scena 8, words only, apparently a Recit. for Eudossia, Placidia, Elmige, and Genserico.

pp. 74—80. 'Scena 9. Onorico e Placidia.' A Recit. Duett, words only, commencing 'Prencipe; a te la pose qui si contenderà,' followed on p. 75 by an Aria in the key of D for Soprano (no character mentioned), 'E già stanca l'alma altera,' scored for three Violins, Viola, and Bassi. See no. 263, p. 94. This Solo seems to finish the Scena.

pp. 81—86. A Bass Solo, in the key of G minor, common time, and scored for Strings and Oboes, originally written to the words 'Per ch'io goda il bel d'un viso,' but these are crossed out and others, beginning 'Ti vedro regnar sul Trono,' are inserted. In the instrumental part of this Solo a piece of imitation is used similar to the original version of the leading subject in 'Let all the angels of God'—Messiah. (See no. 263, p. 58).

pp. 87—88. A Soprano Solo in $\frac{1}{8}$ time, in the key of D minor, with the ordinary String accompaniment, to the words, 'Già sai che 'l ussignuol cantando gema.'

These last two Arias may not belong to this Opera.

pp. 89—91. Directions for five airs, of which only the words are given on p. 89, probably for an Alto Soloist, selected from various works and composers for insertion in some pasticcio Opera, the performance of which must have taken place subsequently to 1737, as in 'Aria 5' Handel refers to a performance already given of the Opera 'Didone,' respecting which we find the following in Burney's History of Music, Vol. 4, p. 407, "On Wednesday, the 13th of April, was performed for the first time at Covent Garden, by Handel's singers and band, a new Opera called Dido, concerning the music of which I am unable to give any account. The Songs were never printed, and no record remains of the existence of the Opera but the advertisements of its performance, by which it cannot be discovered whether it was an entire work, by one composer, or a pasticcio of many composers."

From this page 89 it is possible to decide two points previously unknown, viz. that the libretto of 'Didone' was written by Sig. Gio. Alberto Ristori, and that one of the singers was the celebrated Sig. Domenico Annibali.

The writer of the preface to the Opera 'Porò' (H.-G. lxxix.) says:—

"On the reproduction of the Opera (Porò) in 1736, four alien airs were inserted. These are printed here as Appendix I, II, IV, and VI." Three of the five airs—of which only the words are given on p. 89—are those referred to as alien, viz. (i) 'Tiranna tu ridi.' (ii) 'Mira virtù, che troppo vadi se stessa altera.' (iii) 'Per l' Africane arene Leone innamorato geloso'—printed as appendix on pp. 98, 102 and 111 of Porò, H.-G. lxxix.

Although the words of Nos. 1 and 3 are different in this MS. from those printed, the short instrumental pieces written on p. 90 show unmistakeably that they were intended to be sung to these airs.

'Aria 1.' 'Tiranna tu ridi allora che uccidi un tenero amor,' &c. 'dal Sig. Gio. Alberto Ristori (Dresda),' sung by 'Sig. Annibali in Porò,' in the key of B \flat , in the first act. The names of the accompanying instruments are given. The music of this will be found, but with different words, on p. 98 of H.-G.

'Aria 2.' 'Mira virtù che troppo vadi se stessa altera,' &c. Also written by Ristori, and sung in the second act of Poro in the key of D. The names of the instruments are given as above.

The music of this will be found in H.-G. lxxix. 102. The words of the second part of the air in H.-G. are different from those in the MS.

'Aria 3.' 'Per l' Africane Arene Leone innamorato geloso del suo Bene non sà da Lui partir,' &c., 'dal Sig. Leonardo Vinci cantata da Sig. Antonio Bernacchi,' and again by Domenico Annibali in Act III. of Poro, in the key of F. The accompanying instruments are mentioned, two Horns being required, but in the printed copy in H.-G. lxxix. 111, where the music will be found, the parts are for 'Corni di Caccia.' At the end of the directions for this air there is a reference mark leading to the music on the 7th line, next page.

'Aria 4.' 'Che furia che mostro che 'l barbaro Padre, ti sento dal Lido del torbido Lete,' &c., by Sig. Hasse and sung by Signora Merighi in the Opera 'Siroe,' in Haymarket, in the key of D—'Dis.' This may mean it was to be written in the key of D# or Eb. The Air will be found in this latter key in MS. 24, in this Library, written by J. Bartleman.

'Aria 5.' 'Quel Pastor che udendo al suono dolce canto o danza snella,' &c., 'dal Sig. Gio. Alberto Ristori,' sung by Sig. Annibali in the Opera 'Didone,' 3rd Act, in the key of A.

p. 90. On the three top lines are short pieces of the Viola and Cello parts of the Solo, 'Tiranna tu ridi.' These extracts commence on the lower line of p. 100 of H.-G.

On the 5th and 6th lines are pieces in 'Mira virtù' for the same instruments as above. The Cello extract begins at the top line, and that of the Viola at bar 4 on the same line, p. 105 of H.-G.

On lines 7—9 are vocal and instrumental extracts from 'Per l' Africane arene.'

On the lower line is the Key and Time Signature for the Air, 'Quel pastor,' with the first bar of music for Violin and Bass.

- p. 91. The first two bars—Violin and Cello—of the Air by Hasse, 'Che furia, che mostro.' See no. 24.
 p. 92. An unidentified pencil fragment of Bass twelve bars in length, in the key of F.

SAUL.

- 30 H 9 pp. 1—13. (p. 14 blank). A complete Sonata for two violins and cello, on which Handel ultimately based the overture to Saul. It agrees with the overture (as printed in H.-G. xiii.) in the general build of the work, but not in its arrangement of the string parts.

The 1st movement, with its many alterations, is the same as that printed.

The 2nd movement (printed 'Larghetto,' here written 'Andante Larghetto') is very much longer than that printed.

The 3rd movement is very much shorter than that printed, but it is easily seen it was merely lengthened to allow of the introduction of the organ solos for the overture. The tutti parts (as printed) agree generally with this MS.

The 4th movement is in H.-G. xiii. 152. It was treated in the same way as the third, for insertion in the oratorio. Over the commencement of this movement is written, in different ink '(sinfonia) (in the 2nd part of Saul)' but, I think, not in Handel's writing.

SAMSON.

- p. 15. The first four bars of 'Let the bright seraphim' written as a chorus for S. A. T. B., with string and oboi accompaniments.

The melody of this fragment, which was written from ten to fifteen years previous to the date of the oratorio, is similar to the published Solo in H.-G. x. 269.

- p. 16 blank.
 p. 17. The top line is the working of a subject and counter-subject (in Double Counterpoint) in the key of G major, used (in a similar state, although in a different key) in the chorus 'Then shall they know,' on p. 81 of H.-G. The second line is the working in the key of G, of the subject in the chorus 'Fix'd in his everlasting seat,' on p. 196 of H.-G., but differently treated.

Lines 3—10. 'Marche Lentement' is the Dead March written in the key of C, printed (in the key of D), on p. 295 of H.-G., and also in 'Joseph,' H.-G. xlii. 70. In 'Samson' it is used as a Dead March; in 'Joseph' it is used to accompany the procession to the wedding ceremony.

In this MS. the Score is laid out as in 'Samson,' the Melody being slightly altered. In 'Joseph' the Score is very different, while the Melody remains the same.

p. 18. Lines 1 and 2. Two fragments, one of two bars, the other of five bars, in the key of F, treating differently a musical idea which is used (although different from these fragments) in the Solo 'With plaintive notes,' in H.-G. x. 127.

A fragment of eleven bars in the key of E minor, with a sentence in German written underneath. It seems to belong to the Solo and Chorus 'Great Dagon,' in H.-G. x. 232.

Line 3 is the Ground Bass as used in the Chorus 'To song and dance,' on p. 188, H.-G., with one bar of accompaniment.

Lines 4—5. A short fragment of four bars and a quarter in the key of E minor, evidently a study for the Solo 'Traitor to love' on p. 147, H.-G. A similar phrase will be found on p. 148.

Lines 6 and 7. The Symphony in the key of D of a song marked 'Andante.' It is apparently based on the same idea as the fragment on the two lines above. It may possibly have been intended as a symphony to the Song 'Traitor to love.'

Lines 8—9. A small unrecognized fragment, one bar and a quarter, in A major, in three parts.

p. 19. The first six bars of a Fugue, for S. A. A. T. B. in the key of B minor, triple time, to the words, 'For ever let his sacred praise our grateful souls to raptures raise.' This subject is used to the words 'O celebrate his sacred name' in Deborah, (H.-G. xxix. 215,) also in the Coronation Anthem 'The king shall rejoice' to the words 'Thou hast prevented him with the blessings of goodness,' (H.-G. xiv.

50). At the side of this page is written (the wrong way up) an account of the various characters in Samson. Schœlcher says it may refer to the copyist's bill for the writing of the singers' parts. It is as follows:

Samson 140.....Recit.

Micah 97.

Manoah 76.

Dalilah 31

Harapha 34.

Messenger 10.

In all 386.

p. 20. The whole of this page, with the exception of two lines, is written the wrong way up, and is the only autograph copy known of a Recit. which was afterwards inserted in Samson, and will be found in H.-G. x. p. vi.

On the two top lines of this page, (the right way up,) is an unrecognized piece for Alto, in the key of G, with corrections or improvements.

JOSEPH.

pp. 21—23. The first draft of the Recit. 'Whence this unwonted ardor' and part of the Solo 'I feel a spreading flame' as printed in H.-G. xlii. 60—61. There are slight differences in the Recit., but the solo is very different both in construction and harmony of the string parts, the latter not appearing in the H.-G. edition.

p. 24. A complete 'Menuet' (Treble and Bass), in the key of D, at present unpublished. The Treble is written twice, the second time being an improvement on the first.

pp. 25—30. Another version of the Solo 'Our fruits while yet in blossom die,' on p. 112 of H.-G. This is very different from that published, and appears to have been written for Mezzo-soprano, but it is not referred to in the preface to H.-G. xlii. At the top of the page the word 'Galli' is written; this refers to Signora Galli, a celebrated Mezzo-soprano, said to have been Handel's favourite pupil; she made her début in this oratorio.

pp. 31—33. The Recit. 'He then is silent' on p. 133 of H.-G. This copy makes the Recit. a Duett for Asenath and Phanor, but the part for the latter character is not printed.

On p. 32 (at the end of the Duett Recit.) Handel evidently intended some other piece (in the key of E) to be performed here instead of the following solo 'The wanton favours,' which solo, (in a different key, and with a shorter symphony at the end,) will be found on p. 190 of H.-G.

This Recit. and Aria may have been written for one of the revivals, when the work as a whole was possibly shortened.

p. 34 blank.

SEMELE.

pp. 35—36. Two pages of an important alteration of the accompanied Recit. in H.-G. vii. 154. The orchestration here seems to be on a larger scale than appears in the printed copy. This MS. is evidently for strings and two bassoons, the latter appearing as solo instruments.

BELSHAZZAR.

p. 37 blank.

p. 38. A commencement of the Solo 'Alternate hopes and fears,' different from both those published on pp. 198 and 201 of H.-G. xix.

A piece of imitation, written with pencil, in the key of D minor (Treble and Bass). It resembles the leading subject of the allegro in the overture on p. 2 of H.-G., although it is in a different key.

OCCASIONAL ORATORIO.

p. 39. A part of the Soprano Solo 'Fly from the threatening vengeance,' H.-G. xliii. 57.

p. 40 blank.

p. 41. Lines 1—2 are a first thought for the Symphony to the Soprano Solo 'Prophetic visions strike my eye,' H.-G. xliii. 100.

Lines 3—5 appear to be a Tenor part of something in the key of D major, common time, without words.

Lines 6—9. An Alto or Viola part (probably the latter) of something in the key of D minor, triple time, without words.

p. 42. Lines 1—2. A short symphony (Treble and Bass) in the key of F, common time, of six bars.

Lines 3—8. A first thought (Treble and Bass only, with a few dots denoting the third part of the Harmony) for the well-known March in the overture to this work.

Lines 9—10. The Treble of the March as printed on p. 16 of H.-G.

pp. 43—52. Another version of the solo 'When warlike ensigns wave on high,' on p. 231 of H.-G. The first page of this solo bears extensive alterations.

The Recit. 'The enemy said' on pp. 48 and 49 is the same as printed on p. 239 of H.-G. ; after which Recit. is a direction, crossed out, for the well-known chorus 'He gave them hailstones for rain' to follow.

At the top of p. 50 the reference to the Hailstone Chorus is again crossed out, showing that the Bass solo 'The sword that's drawn in virtue's cause' (p. 244 of H.-G.), followed the Tenor Recit. 'The enemy said.' This incomplete copy of the solo 'The sword that's drawn,' is evidently a first version.

JUDAS MACCABEUS.

pp. 53, 54. 'O Liberty,' as printed in H.-G. xxii. 46. This copy has a shorter symphony at the end than the published edition.

The air was originally written for the Occasional Oratorio in the key of B \flat , but this copy agrees with the air as in Judas Maccabeus, by being in the key of A major. The time signature $\frac{3}{8}$ at the end of the solo shows also that it was intended to be followed by the solo 'Come ever-smiling liberty,' or some such movement, while in the Occasional Oratorio the solo is followed by a Recit.

ALEXANDER BALUS.

p. 55 blank.

pp. 56—58. The harp part for the air 'Hark! he strikes the golden lyre,' very different from that published in H.-G. xxxiii. 27.

pp. 59, 60. A first thought or an alteration of the air, 'Oh what resistless charms,' on p. 50 of H.-G.

JOSHUA.

p. 61. Fragments or first drafts of some of the numbers in this oratorio.

The four bars on lines 1 and 2 in the key of A belong to the solo 'With redoubled rage return,' in H.-G. xvii. 118.

The 'March for the Fife' on lines 3 and 4 in the key of D is the Treble and Bass of 'See the conqu'ring hero,' originally written for this oratorio, and printed in the key of G, in H.-G. xvii. 183.

The 'March for the Fife' on lines 4—8 in the key of C is used in the 'Andante Maestoso' of the overture, on p. 1 of H.-G.

The fragment, on lines 9 and 10, eight bars long, in the key of G, triple time, is unrecognized.

p. 62 blank.

pp. 63, 64. 'As cheers the sun,' a first thought or alteration of this solo on p. 132 of H.-G.

pp. 65, 66. The first thought for the chorus 'O thou bright orb' on p. 146 of H.-G. The general idea is the same, but the instrumentation is different.

SOLOMON.

p. 67. Some studies for the Air 'When the sun o'er yonder hills,' in H.-G. xxvi. 142. On the first four lines the Air is written in common time (printed in $\frac{3}{4}$ time) with very different harmony, and slight alterations in the melody. The short piece at the end of the third and fourth lines marked 'N.B.' appears on the lower line of page 144 of H.-G.

On the fifth and sixth lines, the first four bars of the melody are again written, without the slight alterations in melody and with the harmony as printed, but still in common time. Following these four bars is the melody now in triple time as printed. At the end of these lines is written the commencement of the fragment marked 'N.B.' on the two lines above.

The two pieces of bass on lines 7 and 8 may have been studies for the duett 'Thrice bless'd be the King,' on p. 170 of H.-G. as they appear to be of the same character, and Handel has himself written the word 'Thrice' at the commencement.

On the three lower lines is a fragment of five bars, in the key of A major, written as a Trio; it may have been a study for a part of the chorus on p. 184 of H.-G.

p. 68. A Recit. for Bass voice marked 'Israelite,' to the words 'Sia lieto il nostro,' followed by an incomplete symphony to an 'Andante' movement, orchestrated for strings and oboes, in the key of C. Both of these unrecognized.

pp. 69—72. On these four pages appears the original idea of some of the solo 'Golden columns, fair and bright,' as printed in H.-G. xxvi. 262, written in the tenor clef and in common time (printed in triple time); when this sketch of the solo was abandoned in favour of that in triple time Handel evidently used the paper for sketching other ideas and trying other subjects.

On the top five lines of p. 3 is written a short unrecognized piece of three bars, in the key of G, common time, for violin, and S. A. T. B.

On the three lower lines are written three fragments of a Trio for two oboes or violins, and a bass, not in the published volume. The first fragment is in the key of B \flat , bass only. The second fragment, four bars long, is in the key of D, the bass of which seems to be an ornamentation of the previous fragment, with the upper parts written for the violins or oboes; then follow three bars of bass, still in the key of D.

The commencement of page 70 has the key signatures for the continuation of the solo 'Golden columns,' using a larger orchestra than in the printed copy. On the top five lines of the page is written, with fresh signatures, a piece of imitation in the key of G for violin and S. A. T. B., it looks like the commencement of a chorus.

The commencement of p. 72 has the key signatures the same as p. 70, but on the top line is written the treble only of the first part of a jig-like movement in the key of D.

On the lower part of the page is written 'Sigr....Baroni,' by whom possibly the tenor solo was intended to be sung.

p. 73. A first idea of the solo 'How green our fertile pastures look,' in xxvi. 294, H.-G. This page bears many corrections and yet is very different from that published.

p. 74. The treble (five bars) of a movement in $\frac{3}{4}$ (which ought to be $\frac{4}{4}$) time.

SUSANNA.

pp. 75—78. An incomplete copy of the duett 'When thou art nigh,' in H.-G. i. 17. This copy differs from that published, and appears to be on a more extended plan.

pp. 79, 80. A first thought for the solo 'The parent bird in search of food,' in H.-G. i. 48. The words and music both differing from the published copy.

The note at the bottom of p. 79 refers to the using of the 'serpent' in the two oratorios named 'Samson' and 'Solomon.' Handel is supposed to have only used that instrument once, in the water music (see p. 136 of Schœlcher's 'Life of Handel'), but this seems to imply that it was also used in these two oratorios, although no part exists for it in the scores.

JEPHTHA.

pp. 81, 82. A first thought for the solo 'Scenes of Horror,' in H.-G. xliv. 70.

It is better to compare it with pp. 69 and 70 of Dr Chrysander's facsimile of the autograph of Jephtha.

pp. 83—85. The end of the Quartett and a portion of the Recit., as on p. 171 of the facsimile of the autograph. The '39' at the end of the Quartett refers to the number of bars in the movement.

In this MS. the Recit. has a different ending from that published, the latter being in A major, while here it is in F# major, preparing for the words following, 'For joys so vast,' to be set as a solo in the key of B minor. In the published edition they appear as an accompanied Recit.

The treble and bass (in the key of B minor, ending in the key of F# major) on p. 85 is evidently the groundwork of the Chorus of Priests on p. 212 of the facsimile, although this extract and the chorus are not only different in key but also in character.

p. 86. Line 1. A Fugue subject and tonal answer, in two parts, common time, in the key of F major.

Line 2. A Fugue subject and tonal answer, in two parts, common time, in the key of D minor.

Lines 3—8. An alteration of the above subject, sketched as far as the entry of the fourth part. On line 4 appears a chromatic alteration of the same subject.

Lines 9—10. A Fugue subject and tonal answer in three parts, triple time, to the words 'And thy mercies.'

260.

30 H 10 Twenty-six pages, containing various pieces, published and unpublished, belonging to Operas and Suites.

The paper is similar to that used by Handel during his stay in Italy in 1706—1707, and from these pieces being written in this way, one can see that he was in the habit of composing and preserving his work, even when not engaged upon any large work such as an Opera or Oratorio. In this way it is easier to understand the speed with which some of his works were supposed to have been written.

- p. 1. An unpublished complete 'Menuet' (Treble and Bass) in the key of D minor. It was originally written 'Air en menuet,' but the two first words are crossed out.

On the lower part of this page is written the wrong way up, a fragment (one bar), Treble and Bass.

- p. 2. A few letters and notes as if trying a pen.
p. 3. 'Allemanda' in A major. The word Allemanda is written three times above the top line of the music. It does not seem to be at present published. There are some interesting notes and possibly corrections cut away by a binder.
p. 4. The continuation of the preceding 'Allemanda.'

On line two is a fragment, Treble and Bass, in the key of A major, with the Treble repeated later on in the Bass, and a new counterpoint in the Treble.

On line three is a small piece (one bar) of Alto Solo in the key of C minor, to the words 'A pianger solo aprite-vi.'

On line four a small piece (two bars) of Treble in the key of G major.

The next two lines is a piece of Bass (eight bars) in the key of F. All these fragments appear to have been written at a later period than the Allemanda.

- pp. 5—6. A portion of the overture to Il Pastor Fido arranged for the Harpsichord. It is slightly different from that in H.-G. lix. 1.

On the lower line of p. 6 is a fragment (four bars) of Treble in the key of G. It appears to have been written at a later period than the portion of the Overture.

pp. 7—9. The Overture to Amadigi, probably a first idea of the work, as it is much shorter than that published in H.-G. lxii. The instrumental ornaments in this copy are not in the published edition.

p. 10 blank.

p. 11. 'Air' in the key of F. It appears as one of the movements in the celebrated 'Water Music,' performed in 1715, and will be found in H.-G. xlvii. 40. This copy is different from that published, and may have been written as an air for the Harpsichord previous to its use in the Water Music.

p. 12 blank.

p. 13. A movement in the key of B \flat , used in the key of G in the Overture to 'Scipio,' and will be found in H.-G. lxxi. 4.

p. 14. 'Adagio' in the key of G minor, used in the key of D minor, as a movement in one of the Organ Concertos, and will be found in H.-G. xxviii. 52.

The last two bars differ from the printed copy.

pp. 14—15. 'Allegro,' in the key of B \flat , used in the key of A in the well-known Violin Sonata in A; it will be found—the second part rather different—in H.-G. xxvii. 14.

It seems very probable that these three movements on pp. 13—15 were originally intended to form a Sonata, or at least the greater part of some such work, by themselves; their being ultimately separated and published in different works and at different times proves that he was in the habit of using movements as he required them from a kind of sketch-book, of which these leaves may have formed a part. The first movement was used in 'Scipione,' which opera was not completed till March 2, 1726. The second movement, from the Organ Concertos, which were not published till 1738, and the third movement, from the Violin Sonatas, which were first published at Amsterdam in 1724.

- p. 17 blank.
- p. 18. An unpublished movement, in the key of A minor, for harpsichord, evidently intended for one of the Sonatas or Suites.
- pp. 19—20. An unpublished 'Allegro,' in the key of C minor, for harpsichord. It has undergone considerable correction, and belongs to one of the Sonatas or Suites.
- p. 21. A small unrecognized fragment for harpsichord, in the key of A, common time. A small unrecognized fragment for harpsichord, in the key of F, $\frac{3}{8}$ time.
- p. 22. An incomplete and unrecognized Minuet, in the key of F, apparently for Horns, Oboes, and Bassoon. It may have been intended to form a part of the 'Water Music.'
- p. 23. Two unrecognized fragments in the key of D minor, for two Oboes, or two Violins, and Bass. The first in common time, the second in $\frac{1}{8}$ time.
- p. 24 blank.
- p. 25. A 'Menuet' for Horns, Oboes, and Bassoon, in the key of G. It is printed in the key of D in H.-G. xlvii. 126. All the parts are different from those published, the Horn parts being particularly so.
- p. 26. 'Marche,' evidently written for the 'Water Music,' or some such collection of pieces, but used in Judas Maccabeus, and printed in H.-G. xxii. 189. It is printed for Horns, Violins, and Bassi, here it is evidently intended for Oboes, Horns, and Bassoon.

This same March is used as the ending of one of the Concertos, the autograph of which is in the British Museum.

These 26 pages probably formed a part of the book used by Handel for writing first thoughts.

- pp. 27—42. Sixteen pages containing Bases, figured and unfigured, some of them having the appearance of being written as exercises, the others as being the harpsichord parts to various movements from the Suites.
- p. 27. A figured Bass in the key of G, $\frac{3}{4}$ time, apparently the harpsichord part of a minuet.
Another copy of this on p. 34.
- p. 28. A figured Bass in the key of F, common time, apparently the Bass of an Allegro movement.
Another copy on p. 33.

These two pages are placed here, because they undoubtedly belong to the book of which the previous 26 pages formed a part.

- p. 29. An unfigured Bass, all in minims except last bar, in the key of C, common time.

An unfigured Bass, all in crotchets, except the last bar and a half, in the key of G, common time.

An unfigured Bass, all in quavers, except the last bar and a half, in the key of F major, common time.

An unfigured Bass, exemplifying the use of the \sharp over a bass note, in the key of D minor, in $\frac{3}{2}$ time.

An unfigured Bass, principally in crotchets, in the key of G minor, with an occasional sharp over the note, in $\frac{3}{2}$ time.

A figured Bass in the key of C, exemplifying the use of the 3, \sharp , \flat , \flat over bass notes.

A figured Bass in the key of G, on the chord of the 6th in common time, all except the last bar being in quavers.

A figured Bass in E minor, common time, on the use of the \sharp 6th.

A figured Bass in the key of A minor, common time, on the use of the \flat 6th.

- p. 30. A Bass in the key of F, common time, on the use of the $\frac{4}{4}$ $\frac{5}{3}$.

A figured Bass in the key of B \flat , common time, on the use of the chords $\frac{4}{4}$ $\frac{5}{3}$.

A figured Bass in the key of D minor, common time, on the use of the $\frac{6}{8}$, more like a movement of a suite than an exercise.

A figured Bass in the key of F \sharp minor, common time, on the use of the inversion of the 4 3; another copy of this on p. 39.

- p. 31. A figured Bass in the key of D, common time, on the inversions of the chord of the 7th.

Another copy on p. 39.

A figured Bass in the key of A, common time, on the chord of the 7th.

Another copy on p. 39.

A figured Bass in the key of E, common time, on the chord of the 7th and its inversions. It looks like a movement from a suite.

Another copy on p. 39.

On p. 39, where these four Basses are repeated, they are written in the same order as here, viz. F \sharp minor, D major, A major, E major. Does this mean that they were used on the same occasion, or that they belonged to the same work ?

p. 32 blank.

p. 33. A figured Bass in the key of F, common time, looks like the Bass of an Allegro movement.

Another copy on p. 28.

p. 34. A figured Bass in the key of G, $\frac{3}{4}$ time. It seems to be the harpsichord part of a minuet.

Another copy on p. 27.

p. 35. The Bass of an 'Allegro' in the key of B \flat , $\frac{1}{2}$ time. It belongs to some Sonata. Another copy will be found on p. 42, whereon it plainly shows that it belongs to some 'Sonata a Flauto.'

p. 36 blank.

p. 37. A figured Bass in the key of C minor, common time, on the chords of the 9s.

A figured Bass in the key of E \flat , common time, on the chord of the 9th.

A figured Bass in the key of F minor, common time, on the chord of the 9th.

A figured Bass in the key of G minor, common time, on the chords of the $\frac{9}{7}$ $\frac{8}{6}$.

A figured Bass in the key of B minor on the chords of the $\frac{9}{4}$ $\frac{8}{3}$.

p. 38 blank.

p. 39. A figured Bass in the key of F \sharp minor. Another copy on p. 30.

A figured Bass in the key of D. Another copy on p. 31.

" " " A. Another copy on p. 31.

" " " E. Another copy on p. 31.

p. 40. A fragment, six bars, in the key of D minor, for Treble and Bass. It looks like the commencement of an Oboe Sonata movement.

A memorandum in pencil as follows :—

12 Bottles French Duke Street.

Meels.'

This latter word may be the name of the wine merchant.

p. 41. The last four bars of the symphony to a soprano solo, in the key of B \flat .

- p. 42. The harpsichord part of an allegro in the key of B \flat , $\frac{1}{8}$ time. Another copy on p. 35.

At the lower part of the page is written

‘So Sonata

a Flauto.’

Also a few letters and notes as if trying a pen.

- pp. 43—72. Studies for Fugues.

The first four examples may have been used by Handel for hurriedly planning the Fugue or Fughetta, leaving it to be fully written out at some future time, or they may have been exercises for some pupil to work out, as they are here written in the same way as in Choron’s celebrated work on Fugue. They appear from their shortness to be rather exercises than developed Fugues. It is possible that Handel wrote these short pieces for his pupils the daughters of the Prince of Wales.

- p. 43. A Fugue subject and counter-subject in the key of E major. The counter-subject worked by augmentation, with directions for the entry of the subject and counter-subjects in the different parts. This subject is very similar to one used by Handel in his studies for the Messiah, ultimately used (after various modifications) in the Chorus ‘Let all the angels of God;’ it will be found in 263, p. 58.

- p. 44 blank.

- p. 45. A Fugue subject and counter-subject in the key of E minor, for four voices or instruments, with directions for the entry of the subject and counter-subject.

- p. 46 blank.

- p. 47. A Fugue subject and counter-subject in the key of G major, for four voices or instruments, with directions as before. A similar subject is worked on p. 68 of this vol.

- p. 48 blank.

- p. 49. A Fugue subject, but no counter-subject, in the key of F, for four voices or instruments, with directions as before.

- p. 50 blank.

- pp. 51 and 52. Studies of the subjects used in the chorus ‘O God behold our sore distress’ in Jephtha (H.-G. xliv. 60). They may belong to the copy of Habermann’s Mass on pp. 83—90 in 263.

- p. 53 blank.

- p. 54. Study of a melody in the key of G major written twice, the first time in crotchets and quavers, the second time in quavers and semiquavers, with several alterations in the melody and written out at greater length.

- p. 55. A short working of a Fugue on two subjects in the key of A minor, for four voices.

A short working of a Fugue subject in $\frac{3}{4}$ time, in the key of A minor (very different from the one above) for four voices.

At the bottom of this page, but written the wrong way up, is a note

‘James.....’

Banker in Lombard Street

pour M. Wesselow en france.’

- p. 56. The working of a Fugue subject for four voices in the key of C, ultimately used in the key of G in the ‘Amen’ Chorus in the Messiah. This subject is worked again on the next page.

The working of a subject for four voices, in the key of C, commencing very much like the well-known ‘Non nobis Domine.’

- p. 57. The working, for four voices, of the Fugue subject, as on p. 56, starting this time on the dominant chord, and answered on the supertonic. This piece is also used in the ‘Amen’ Chorus.

The working of a subject based on the inversion of the previous one, and used in the key of G in the ‘Amen’ Chorus. This working is marked ‘2’ as if it was the second piece required or used by Handel.

On the lower line is written about 8 bars of Treble, in the key of D, $\frac{3}{8}$ time, and seems to be a minuet kind of movement. The writing of this fragment is long after that of the other part of the page referred to. At the top of this page Vincent Novello has written a pencil notice about this subject being used in the ‘Amen’ Chorus.

- p. 58. The working of the second Fugue subject on the previous page, the Tenor leading off on the supertonic, answered in the 8ve by the Treble. This is used in the ‘Amen’ Chorus.

The working of a Fugue subject in the key of C (in four parts), but not connected with the foregoing pieces.

All these short fragments of Fugue finish with a proper cadence as if they were complete in themselves, but they are evidently studies to be used if required.

At the top of this page is written, as if trying a pen, 'Sans Madame,' and at the other end of the page 'M.'

- p. 59. A portion of a Fugue, 18 bars long, in the key of F, for four voices, the Alto leading off. The subject is very similar to that in H.-G. x. 83 (Samson), but the counter-subject is very different, clearly showing it does not belong to that work.

- pp. 60—61. A portion (22 bars long) of a Fugue, in the key of G, for four voices.

- p. 62. At the top of the page is written 'NB....Them.'

On the first line, are two bars of Treble, in the key of G.

On the second and third lines is a Treble and Bass, in the key of E minor, fourteen bars long, to the words 'Low at her feet.'

- p. 63. The working of a Fugue subject for four voices, in the key of A minor according to the signature, but from the answer entry of the Tenor on B it appears to be really in the key of E minor.

Another working of the same subject in four parts. It looks more like the counter-exposition of the Fugue, with a final cadence in the key of A minor.

- pp. 64—65. The exposition and stretto treatment of a Fugue for four voices, in the key of E minor.

- p. 65. Small fragment of three-part counterpoint (two Trebles and Bass) in the key of D. It appears to be on a subject similar to the second working on p. 56 of this vol.

- p. 66. An exposition and final cadence into the key of F, of a Fugue subject for four voices, similar to that on p. 64, commencing on the Subdominant in the key of C, the answer coming in two minims after on the Tonic.

Another exposition of same subject slightly altered, with the subject leading off on the Tonic, the answer coming in four minims later on the Subdominant. This also has a final cadence into the key of F.

- p. 67. A Soprano and Alto fragment in the key of D minor. It looks like the commencement of a Fugue on two subjects. An answer, by inversion, to this counterpoint is also written.

An exposition with the lowest part (Tenor) written to the end of the cadence, of a Fugue in the key of D minor (according to signature) but the final cadence is in G minor, the subject being similar to those on pp. 64 and 66. It seems to be written for Treble, Soprano, Alto, and Tenor.

A short exposition and final cadence of a Fugue in G minor, for four voices, with directions for the entry of the other parts, the Bass only being written.

- p. 68. A short Fughetta, in four parts, in the key of F, written on two lines. The subject is nearly the same as that on p. 47 of this vol.

The Treble of a Hymn Tune, No. 112 in the 1861 edition of Hymns Ancient and Modern, to the words, 'Christ the Lord is risen again,' with some added notes and slight alterations from the published version. Was this Tune composed by Handel, or is this a copy of his alterations of a well-known German chorale?

The Air to the words 'Vaghe pupille' is from the opera 'Orlando,' and will be found, in notes double the value of these, in H.-G. lxxxii. 67.

- pp. 69—72.

An incomplete Fugue in the key of F, for Soprano, Alto, Tenor, and Bass; it is based on the well-known Fugue in the II Suite (H.-G. ii. 9), but the working out of the subject and counter-subject is very different.

Another copy of the last nine bars of this Fugue, but written (as published) on two lines for harpsichord, will be found on p. 41 of 263.

- 30 H 11. pp. 1—5. 'Sonata a Flauto e Cembalo,' in G minor, as printed in H.-G. xxvii. 9.

The second note (Treble) on the second line of p. 3 is here written C, but printed as A♭. The C seems to be the better note of the two.

The third and fourth movements of the third Organ Concerto (H.-G. xxviii. 40) are based on the last two movements of this Sonata.

- p. 6 blank.

- pp. 7—11. 'Sonata a Flauto e Cembalo,' in F major, as printed in H.-G. xxvii. 40. There are a few more figures in the harpsichord part than printed. The first bar on lower line of p. 10 is also different from the printed copy. The first movement is here called 'Grave,' printed Larghetto.

p. 12 blank.

pp. 13—19. 'Violino Solo.' The well-known Sonata in A major, in H.-G. xxvii. 12.

The first movement is printed Andante, here it is marked 'Larghetto.'

p. 20 blank.

pp. 21—25. 'Violino Solo.' The Sonata printed as Oboe Sonata in H.-G. xxvii. 22.

The first movement is printed Larghetto, here it is written as 'Andante Larghetto,' the word Adagio being crossed out.

At the bottom of this first page (p. 21) the leading subject of the movement is written 'per la Viola da Gamba,' an inscription underneath being crossed out.

The last Allegro in this Sonata, which has several pencil corrections by the composer (p. 24), was afterwards used in the Overture to the Opera of 'Siroe,' and will be found in H.-G. lxxv. 6.

pp. 25—29. 'Sonata 2,' printed as a Traverso Solo in H.-G. xxvii. 6, in the key of E minor.

p. 30 blank.

pp. 31—37. Suite No. 2, Third Collection, H.-G. ii. 128.

These four movements were evidently intended to succeed each other, as they are marked at the top of the right-hand corner of each page, 1, 2, 3 and 4. Another copy of the Saraband and Gigue on p. 60 of 262.

pp. 32, 34, and 36 are blank.

pp. 38—39. 'Quel fior che all' alba ride,' an unpublished Cantata for Soprano Solo. The same words are used for a Duett in H.-G. xxxii. 116, and the subject of this 'Andante' (ultimately used in "And He shall purify") is also in the same Duett, but otherwise the two works differ considerably.

p. 40 blank.

pp. 41—43. Suite No. 1 in the Third Collection, H.-G. ii. 125. The same as printed, with the exception of a few grace notes.

p. 44 blank.

pp. 45—49. 'Sonata, Allegro,' practically the same as printed in H.-G. ii. 154.

From a small piece of this page (left by the binder) it is seen that the paper was formerly larger than at present. The 'Trio Larghetto,' p. 48, begins differently from the printed version. At the bottom of each page or at the end of each movement the number of bars is noted, although not always correctly. The Gavotte of this Sonata (on p. 49) is also used in the well-known Concerto Grosso, in the key of C, H.-G. xxi. 79.

pp. 52—60. A series of movements, the same, with a few slight exceptions, as published in H.-G. xxvii. 32, as Sonata IX. for Traverso Solo. All these movements are written a minor third higher than printed. They are written on what appears to be the thick Italian paper.

pp. 61—64. Complete unpublished Sonata, evidently for harpsichord, in three movements, which appear to be (1) Allegro in G major, (2) Largo in the same key, ending on the chord of B major, (3) Allegro or Gigue, $1\frac{2}{3}$ time, in G major.

pp. 65—68. 'Sonata pour l'Hautbois Solo,' recently published, in three movements, which appear to be (1) Andante in Bb, (2) 'Grave' in G minor, (3) 'Allegro' in Bb major.

p. 69. A small piece (13 bars) of three-part writing, in the key of C major. It appears to be a Minuet, or some such movement, for two Violins and harpsichord.

pp. 70—71. A movement, $\frac{3}{8}$ time, in the key of F major, for two Violins, with no accompanying instrument, at present unpublished. It may belong to the following movements, and be the first movement of a Sonata.

pp. 72—73. 'Grave,' unpublished, in D minor, for two Violins and Basso or harpsichord, leading into the next movement.

pp. 73—76. An Allegro or Gigue, $1\frac{2}{3}$ time, in the key of F, at present unpublished, for two Violins and Basso or harpsichord. This movement is very similar in character to the 'Presto' in the Organ Concerto No. 5 (H.-G. xxviii. 61). At the top of p. 75 is written 'Seconda parte.'

These last 16 pages (pp. 61—76) are the thick Italian paper.

30 H 12. pp. 1—5. An unpublished version of a Solo, 'Coll' ardor del tuo bel core,' in Agrippina, in H.-G. li. 111.

In this copy the words are 'Col valor del vostro brando.' It is in a different key (published in B \flat , here in A), and the accompaniment is written for a larger orchestra. In the printed copy it requires only Violins (always in unison), Violoncello, and Bassi, while here there are parts for two Violins, Violoncelli, Contra-bassi, Bassoons, and Harpsichord. The Solo itself is also longer than the printed version.

At the bottom of p. 1, is written (in a strange hand), 'he seems to have used this subject in Joshua—"Haste Israel."' The two Solos only resemble each other in having a great many semiquavers in the accompaniment.

p. 6 blank.

pp. 7—8. Two quarto ($11\frac{1}{2}'' \times 9''$) pages, probably belonging to the original score of the Te Deum in D, printed in H.-G. xxxvii. 19. The name of the performer, 'Mr Hughes,' a well-known alto singer in the Chapel Royal Choir, being inserted, shows that this version of the Solo was used in that establishment.

p. 9. Three Hymn Tunes: I. 'The Invitation,' 'Sinners, obey the Gospel word,' II. 'Desiring to Love,' 'O Love divine, how sweet thou art,' and III. 'On the Resurrection,' 'Rejoice, the Lord is King.' At the top of the page a note is written by S. Wesley as follows, 'The words of these Hymns are by my father, the late Rev. Charles Wesley. S. Wesley.' These Tunes are not yet published by the H.-G., but Schoelcher, Life of Handel, p. 52, says they were published by S. Wesley in 1829. The last tune of the three is in Hymns Ancient and Modern, no. 202.

p. 10 blank.

p. 11. An unpublished 'Hunting Song' for Treble, with harpsichord accompaniment, in the key of D, triple time, to the following words:—

The morning is charming, all nature is gay, Away my brave Boys, to your Horses away.

For the prime of our pleasure is questing the Hare,
 We have not so much as a moment to spare.
 Hark the merry-ton'd Horn, how melodious it sounds,
 To the musical song of the merry-mouthed Hounds.

- p. 12. A piece of triple counterpoint, written in three ways, in the key of Eb, common time. It looks like a piece of vocal writing for S A T B.

Two studies (Treble and Bass) for the Symphony to a Song in the key of C minor, common time, the second example being much better than the first.

- p. 13—16. An unpublished Alto Air to the words, 'Con lacrime si belle,' &c., with accompaniments for Strings and Oboes. Not quite complete.

- p. 17. The commencement (12 bars) of an unpublished Soprano Air, in the key of C minor, common time, to the words, 'S' or mi dai pene o Dio d' amore,' with accompaniments for Violins (in unison) and Cello.

- p. 18 blank.

- pp. 19—20. An incomplete unpublished Alto Air, in the key of E minor, with accompaniments for Violins (in unison) and Cello, to the words, 'L' odio sì, ma poi ritrovo,' &c.

- p. 21. Part of the Solo, 'O placido il mare lusinga la sponda,' ('Siroe'), H.-G. lxxv. 22, possibly a first thought for the work.

- p. 22. An unrecognized Symphony (Treble only) to some song in the key of A major. The fragments on the second and third lines, also at the end of the first line, probably belong to the Song in 'Siroe' (H.-G. lxxv. 98, 99). The last piece of Bass on the third line is evidently the same as printed in the third bar, p. 99 of H.-G.

- p. 23. A first thought for the Solo, 'Impara a non temer dal mio costante amor,' ('Arminio,' H.-G. lxxxix. 92) very different from the published version. This Solo is continued for two bars on p. 24.

- p. 24. Fragments of subjects.

On the top line is a Fugue subject (Treble) four bars in length, in the key of D minor, common time, with the first bar of the answer and counter-subject.

On the second line is the treble of the subject of a bourrée movement in the key of D minor, common time.

On the third line, two small fragments—semiquavers—of Tenor work in the key of A, marked '1' and '2.'

On the fourth and fifth lines is a piece of imitation in three parts in the key of B minor, three bars in length.

On the sixth line is the Treble of a movement in the key of F, in two parts, each marked with a repetition mark.

pp. 25—27. An unpublished Soprano Song—in three verses—with harpsichord accompaniment. 'Love's but the frailty of the mind, when 'tis not with ambition joyn'd.'

p. 28 blank.

p. 29. An unpublished 'Hallelujah Amen' for Soprano, in the key of F, with harpsichord accompaniment.

p. 30 blank.

p. 31 blank.

p. 32—33. An unpublished 'Hallelujah Amen' for Soprano, in the key of F—a much more elaborate composition than that on p. 29—with harpsichord accompaniment.

p. 34 blank.

p. 35. An unrecognized Fugue subject and counter-subject—in the key of F, Treble and Bass—worked in double counterpoint.

At the bottom of this page are some figures written, such as 46, 40, 52, 37, 32a, as if either trying a pen or making notes.

p. 36. Cantata 'Mi palpita il cor,' one page only of this work as written for the Alto, and very different from that in H.-G. I. 153.

These two pages appear to be the thick Italian paper, and have a watermark something like 'C & I Honio.'

p. 37. An unpublished 'Gigue,' complete, in the key of B \flat , $\frac{1}{8}$ time, for Violin, Viola, and Violoncello.

p. 38. On the top line an unrecognized fragment (Treble) in the key of G major, five bars in length, $\frac{3}{4}$ time, it may be a first thought for the Solo, 'Se non ho l'idol mio scettro,' in 'Berenice,' H.-G. xc. 36, as the two following pieces belong to that opera. On lines 2—4 is the Treble only of the Gigue, belonging to the Overture of Berenice, and will be found in H.-G. xc. 4. Another copy of this Gigue will be found on the next page of this vol.

The small piece of Bass on line 5, belongs to the Solo 'Sù, Megera, Tisifone, Aletto!' in H.-G. xc. 45. The published version differs slightly from this.

The 'Allegro' on lines 6—10 belongs to 'Giustino,' and will be found in H.-G. lxxxiii. 37. In the printed copy the Recit. (of which the 'Vano' in the MS. is the end), and the following Allegro appear as two distinct movements, but Handel probably intended them to be performed (as here written) as one movement, with no break between.

- p. 39. 'Gigue, presto.' Portions of the letters in the following direction have been cut away by previous binders, but enough is left to clearly show its purport, 'a l' overture del opera de Berenice.' This Gigue is the same as printed in H.-G. xc. 4.

On the lower line of this page is an unrecognized Fugue subject, answer, and counter-subject, in the key of D minor.

- p. 40 blank.

- pp. 41—44. 'Angelico splendor,' an incomplete and at present unpublished Soprano Solo performed at one of the early performances of 'Israel in Egypt.'

- p. 45. 'Vanne, che piu ti miro,' an incomplete copy of the air from 'Faramondo,' printed in H.-G. xci. 19. This copy, which is continued on the fourth and fifth lines of the next page, is very different from the published version; it may possibly have been a first thought for the work.

At the bottom of the page is written 'Mr Duval medecin in Poland Street.' This might be the address of a medical man, as Handel was very ill at the time of writing Faramondo, i.e. in 1737.

- p. 46. The piece marked 'N B' on the three top lines and continued at the end of lines 4 and 5, is a portion of the Solo 'Non ingannarmi, nò, conforto del mio sen,' and will be found in Faramondo, H.-G. xci. 57, line 3.

On line 6, is a small fragment (one bar) of a Solo in the Opera 'Serse,' 'Io le dirò che l' amo,' in the key of Bb, printed in H.-G. xcii. 14, in the key of G.

Also on line 6 is an unrecognized Fugue subject, answer, and counter-subject in the key of D.

- pp. 47—50. Part of an unrecognized Overture, appears to be written for Oboes and Strings. It may belong to one of the revisions of 'Triumph of Time and Truth.'

- pp. 51—53. An unpublished Chorus for S A T B, with accompaniments for two Violins, Bassi, and Horns in G.

No words. It is based on the organ Concerto in B \flat (H.-G. xxviii. 107), and appears to be complete, as the number of the bars '35' is added twice at the end. The Horn parts are written (below the Bassi, as if they were an after-thought) on pp. 52 and 53 only.

On the three lower lines of p. 51, are studies for some chorus (not connected with the one above), seemingly for Soprano and Bass, and two Traverso Flutes, in the key of D, $\frac{4}{4}$ time. The words 'ever faithfull' have been crossed out.

On the lower line of p. 52 is a subject for imitation in three parts, in the key of D, for Sopranos, the words 'and thy mercies' crossed out. At the end of this chorus on p. 52, a signature or a date to the composition has evidently been cut away.

p. 54. An 'Adagio' and 'Allegro' from some unpublished Sonata, evidently for a Violin and Harpsichord, in the key of A (with the signature of two sharps).

pp. 55—58. Four pages of $11\frac{1}{2}'' \times 9\frac{1}{4}''$.

p. 55. Violin part 'consordini' of a 'Larghetto' movement, commencing 'Pronto ti dico,' and another—seemingly the same music—'Andiam vicini andiam,' both pieces in Smith's writing.

A complete 'Allegro,' unpublished, in the key of G, for Violin Solo, above the top line of which Handel has pencilled '1738.'

p. 56. A complete unpublished 'Allegro' in the key of C, for two Violins dated '25 Agost 1738,' '24 Agost' and a German word underneath crossed out.

p. 57 blank.

p. 58. Subject for Fugue in the key of B \flat , with a repeat mark for the second bar, very similar to the subject of the Allegro in the key of F, H.-G. xxvii. 191.

From a small piece of this last leaf left by the former binder, it is seen that this paper was larger than at present.

p. 59. $9'' \times 11\frac{1}{2}''$. A soloist's copy of an Air to be found in 'Imeneo,' H.-G. xciii. 8. The words here, 'Nel passar da un laccio al' altro sospirar,' are entirely different from those printed.

p. 60. 'Sarab.' The Saraband and Gigue of the II. Suite in the Third Collection, H.-G. ii. 130.

Another copy of these two movements will be found in pp. 35 and 37, 261.

- p. 61. Fragments and subjects connected with the Concertos and works of that character.

Lines 1 and 2. An unrecognized subject of an Allegro in the key of G, Treble and Bass.

Line 3. Four subjects for different movements. The first in E minor, is the subject of the Larghetto of the 3rd Concerto, H.-G. xxx. 31. The second, also in E minor, is the subject of the Allegro in the same Concerto, H.-G. xxx. 34. The third, in G major, is the subject of the Polonaise in the same Concerto, H.-G. xxx. 40. The fourth is an unrecognized Fugue subject for Soprano, in the key of D major.

Line 4. A fragment of Treble in the key of G, appears to be of the same character as some of the solo passages in the Polonaise referred to previously.

Lines 5—6. Evidently belonging to the above Polonaise, similar passages appearing in H.-G. xxx. 41.

Lines 7—8. Four fragments, Treble and Bass.

The first, in the key of B \flat , is possibly a first thought for the Concerto in A minor, H.-G. xxx. 46.

The second fragment, in B \flat major, triple time, one bar and a beat, is at present unrecognized. The same with regard to the third fragment (one bar) in common time.

The fourth fragment may belong to the Allegro in H.-G. xxx. 178.

Lines 9—10. A fragment of two bars and a half connected with the Andante in H.-G. xxx. 100.

- p. 62. Lines 1—2. Four bars of chords, as if trying progressions or series of chords on which to found a Recit. or some such work as the Larghetto in the Ode for S. Cecilia's Day, H.-G. xxiii. 6. The fragment of Treble, in the key of A, is connected with the Solo 'Sharp Violins proclaim,' on top line of p. 44 of H.-G.

Line 3. A first thought for the Soprano Solo 'As from the power of sacred lays,' H.-G. xxiii. 57.

Line 4. Fugue—subject, answer, and counter-subject—in the key of A, probably the first thought for the subject on the next line.

Line 5. Fugue subject as used in the Concerto in G, H.-G. xxx. 8.

Lines 6—7. Two fragments evidently connected with the working of the above subject, in that movement.

Lines 8—9. Four bars, unrecognized, of the beginning of a $\frac{3}{8}$ movement, in the key of G minor.

p. 63. A pencil fragment, unrecognized, in the key of G minor.

p. 64. Lines 1—2. Eight bars, Treble and Bass, of the commencement of some Allegro, in the key of G major, at present unrecognized.

Lines 3—9. The Treble and Bass of the 'March,' as used in the Ode for S. Cecilia's Day, H.-G. xxiii. 38. The Bass is not complete.

p. 65. An unrecognized Symphony to a Song for Alto, orchestrated for Strings and Hautbois, in the key of G.

p. 66 blank.

p. 67. Incomplete unrecognized Air for Soprano, in the key of G, $\frac{3}{8}$ time, 'Si crudel tornera.'

p. 68 blank.

263.

30 H 13. p. 1 ($9\frac{1}{8}'' \times 11\frac{1}{8}''$). 'Air,' in the key of C, common time, marked in the right-hand corner 'No. 1,' at present unpublished.

p. 2 blank.

p. 3. 'Passepied,' in the key of C, triple time, marked 'No. 2,' at present unpublished. This and the previous 'Air' were probably movements of a Suite.

p. 4 blank.

p. 5. An unpublished movement complete, in the key of G, common time.

p. 6 blank.

p. 7. 'Sonatina,' in the key of Bb, common time, H.-G. ii. 150. This may be the first movement of a Sonatina, the others being lost.

p. 8 blank.

pp. 9—12. The first three movements of Sonata VIII, H.-G. xxvii. 29. The 'Largo' for the first movement is not in the printed copy. The ms. shows careful revision. It differs in a few cases from the published copy.

pp. 13—17. Incomplete copy of Sonata VII (the first movement absent, the second incomplete, the 3rd, 4th, and 5th movements as printed), H. G. xxvii. 25. The ms. commences on the lower line of p. 26, H.-G. xxvii. 25.

p. 18 blank.

p. 19. A 'Gigue,' in the key of F, undoubtedly belonging to one of the Suites, but at present unpublished. There are several pencil additions, apparently in a later hand.

p. 20 blank.

p. 21. 'Sonata a Flauto e Cembalo,' the first three bars of Sonata No. iv. H.-G. xxvii. 15.

The Minuet in D minor will be found in the key of B minor in H.-G. xxvii. 36. The two copies (i.e. ms. and printed) differ slightly in bar 12.

p. 22. A complete movement in the key of D minor, common time, unpublished.

pp. 23—24. A complete unpublished movement—probably Allemande—in the key of F major, common time.

p. 25. 'Allemande.' The first movement of Suite No. 2, Set III. H.-G. ii. 128.

p. 26 blank.

p. 27. 'Courante' belonging to the same Suite as the above 'Allemande,' printed in H.-G. ii. 129. In bars 18 and 19 there is an important difference.

p. 28 blank.

p. 29. An unpublished movement in the key of D.

p. 30 blank.

p. 31. 'Harpeg.' An unpublished movement, probably the Prelude to a Suite; a piece written in the same manner is printed as a prelude to the 1st Suite, II Collection, H.-G. ii. 63.

p. 32 blank.

pp. 33—34. The movement as printed H.-G. xxvii. 131, where it is named 'Capriccio,' for what reason does not appear. It was probably intended as a 1st movement to a Suite or some such work. The leading idea of the movement is used in Alexander's Feast, and will be found in H.-G. xii. 91.

pp. 35—36. 'Allemande' as printed in H.-G. ii. 15.

p. 37 ($11\frac{1}{2}'' \times 9\frac{5}{8}''$). 'Allemande' (incomplete) as above, H.-G. ii. 15. This copy has an alteration in bar 8.

pp. 38, 39 blank.

p. 40. 'Allemande,' H.-G. ii. 28. On the lower line of this page are written eight bars of the Sarabande belonging to the same suite as the above Allemande; these are to be found on the lower line of p. 30, H.-G. ii.

p. 41 ($9\frac{1}{16}'' \times 11\frac{9}{16}''$). 'Fuge' in F. The last nine bars of the Fugue in the second Suite, as printed H.-G. ii. 11. This ms. is signed 'Fine. G. F. Handel,' the number of bars, '51,' is also added. It is apparent from the words 'Segue l' allegro' being crossed out at the end of the movement, that at first the Fugue was intended to be followed by an Allegro—probably that on the next page, whereas in the printed copy (H.-G.) the Fugue ends the Suite.

p. 42. 'Allegro' in F, signed 'Fine. G. F. Handel.' This movement, although crossed out, is the same (with the exception of a few notes) as that printed in H.-G. ii. 142, and called 'Courante.' This movement was intended originally to follow the Fugue on the previous page, and end the Suite.

pp. 43—45. A part of Sonata vi, H.-G. xxvii. 192. In the preface to the Vol. of Chamber music referred to, Dr Chrysander says the original manuscript of only a part of this Sonata is preserved; these three pages probably complete the ms. They are the same as printed, and 'Fine' is written at the end. The 'Andante' on the lower line of p. 43 is also used in the well-known organ Concerto, No. 1 of the 1st set, H.-G. xxviii. 18, in the key of G.

p. 46 blank.

p. 47. Serse. The two top lines of this page are studies for the Air 'Và godendo vezzoso e bello,' H.-G. xcii. 12. The eight bars on line 2 are an improvement of the second part of the Air on the top line. The printed version is different from both of these.

Lines 3—10 are the Treble and Bass of the Gigue (on p. 5 of H.-G.) and show how carefully Handel altered and improved his works.

The small pieces of Treble and Bass on lines 1 and 2 are a new ending to the first part of the Gigue; a similar improvement will be seen on lines 7—10, at the end of the second part.

p. 48 blank.

pp. 49—53. A series of movements in various stages of preparation previous to insertion in any definite work.

p. 49. Lines 1 and 2. 'Gavot' Treble only, in the key of G, bearing marks of extensive alterations. This Gavotte will be found in the key of A in the Opera Arianna (H.-G. lxxxiii. 41), also as the last movement of the 1st Sonata or Trio for two Violins and Harpsichord (H.-G. xxvii. 160). The ms. establishes the fact that the published ending is the original version.

Line 2. The Treble of an unidentified Minuet in the key of G, the last note of which has been cut away by a previous binder.

Lines 3—5. 'Musette.' The Treble only (with alterations) practically the same as printed in 'Ariodante' (H.-G. lxxxv. 59). Two other movements very similar in character are on pp. 52 and 62 of this vol.

Lines 6—8. 'Minuet, Act 2,' evidently for Violin, Viola, and Cello, in the key of C minor, at present unidentified.

Lines 9, 10. 'Gavotte,' Treble and Bass only in the key of B \flat , at present unidentified. At the side is written 'NB 3 Act,' which shows that the movement was inserted in some work.

p. 50. Line 1. The Treble of a Minuet in the key of A minor. This movement is used in the Overture and the Final Chorus of Arminio. The first part is used (with a slightly different ending) in the key of G minor in the Final Chorus 'A capir tante dolcezze,' H.-G. lxxxix. 103. The Second is used in the Minuet of the Overture in the key of B minor, and will be found in H.-G. lxxxix. 4.

Lines 1, 2. The Treble of an unidentified Minuet in the key of A.

Lines 3, 4. The Treble and Bass of an incomplete 'Air de Luteur' in the key of A minor, marked 'Pesament,' about 15 bars in length.

p. 51. Lines 1—3. The Treble (the Bass line only having key and time signature) of an unidentified incomplete 'Rondeau,' in the key of E minor.

Lines 3—9. The Treble and Bass incomplete of 'Rondeau' inserted in Ariodante, H.-G. lxxxv. 96.

p. 52. On line 1 (and continued on line 6) is the Treble of a Musette in the key of B \flat . A slightly different version of this Air will be found on p. 62 of this vol. in the key of G. This was evidently a first thought for the work, and intended to be written for 2 Violins, Viola, and Bass.

On lines 2—4 and continued on 5, 6 and 10 is the Symphony to some song or Chorus, at present unidentified, in the key of F, written for 'Hautbois and Bassons,' the last note of which is marked 'Tutti.'

On lines 7 and 8 is a piece of Treble; although the signature appears to be in the key of C, the music is certainly in the key of F and is undoubtedly connected with the fragment on lines 2—6 and 10.

p. 54. On lines 1—6 is the first sketch of a March, properly written out and inscribed 'Marche Allegro,' on lines 7 and 8. The Treble only is written.

p. 55. 'Marche Allegro' complete for 'Hautbois, Tromb. and Bassons,' in the key of D, at present unpublished. Identical with that on the page preceding. It is undoubtedly based on the Chorus 'Dia si lode in cielo, in terra' in 'La Resurrezione,' composed in 1708, H.-G. xxxix. 76, and may have formed part of the Firework Music.

p. 56 blank.

p. 57. 'Marche,' complete in the key of G, at present unpublished. It seems to be written for 2 Violins and a Bass.

p. 58. Studies for the Messiah. This page has been photographed and will be published in the H.-G. facsimile edition of that work.

Line 1. A study for 'He was despised.'

In actual notes it is very similar to the printed version, but in regard to time it is very different. It commences on the fourth quaver (with eight in a bar), the word 'was' thus occurring on the secondary accent, but in the printed copy the air commences on the eighth quaver and throws the principal accent on the word 'was.' The whole of this fragment differs from the printed version in this one respect, and the only portion not used is the final cadence.

Line 2. A subject in crotchets, written in the key of F for Soprano with the words 'Let all the Angels' crossed out, and others 'And cast away' added, probably indicating that it was intended as a part of the Chorus 'Let us break their bonds.'

Line 3. The same subject as above written and lengthened in quavers for Tenor, with the words 'Let all the angels of the Lord' crossed out and 'And cast away their yokes from us' added.

The first seven notes of these subjects differ from those used in the well-known chorus 'Let all the angels of God' very slightly, the difference being in the first three notes. In the ms. the phrase begins on the Dominant, goes down to the Tonic and returns up to the Dominant. In the printed version it begins on the Dominant, rises to the Tonic, and goes down to the Dominant. The words are also slightly different. Here they are 'Let all the angels of the Lord,' while they are printed as 'Let all the angels of God.' There is also a great similarity between the second bar of the subject on line 3 and that on the next line, viz. Amen Chorus.

Lines 4—6 and continued on 8 and 9. An incomplete exposition of the subject of the 'Amen' Chorus, very different from the printed version. Preparation is made for the four voices, but only three take part in the work. The Soprano leads off followed by the Alto, then the Tenor comes in with the subject. This is the very opposite of the plan adopted in the finished work.

On line 8 is a piece of Treble in the key of A minor above which is written—Der arme Irische Junge ('The poor Irish boy'). This was probably written during Handel's stay in Dublin, and from the word 'Ballet' being written underneath, he may have intended using it as a dance tune in some composition. Did he use it in the Forest Music?

At the bottom of this page is written:—

'This is a most curious and interesting page as it contains the first germ of two of the very finest compositions that Handel ever wrote, viz. the song "He was despised" and the "Amen" Chorus in the Messiah. The original ms. of the complete Oratorio is in the King's Library. V. N. 1830.'

This was written by Vincent Novello, who is wrong in stating that the original ms. in the Royal collection is complete.

pp. 59—66. A series of movements evidently intended for insertion in some work at present unidentified.

pp. 59, 60. A complete movement in the key of G for Strings, Hautbois, and Horns, marked 'No. 9', at present unpublished.

- p. 61. A complete movement in the key of C minor, for Strings and Hautbois, at present unpublished, evidently used in the 2nd act of some work. It is marked 'A 2. No. 10.'
- pp. 62, 63. 'Musette' in the key of G major for Strings and Flutes, marked 'No. 11,' at present unpublished by the H.-G. It is published in No. 5, p. 86, of Novello's Piano-forte Handel Albums. The Treble of this movement will be found in B flat on p. 52 of this Vol. At the end a direction is given for a Minuet in the key of G to follow.
- p. 64 blank.
- p. 65. A movement in the key of E minor, printed as a Gavotte in H.-G. xxvii. 171. It is marked 'Tutti. Act 3. No. 14.'
- p. 66. A movement for Violin, Violas, and Bassi, in the key of A, marked 'No. 15,' at present unpublished.
- p. 67. An unpublished Symphony in the key of E \flat for Strings, very similar to a symphony on p. 88 of 'Atalanta.'
- p. 68 blank.
- p. 69. A page of fragments connected with some Oratorio. At the top is written 'The Book of Kings, Ahab, Jezabel, Naboth, the Profet Elija.'
- Lines 1—5. A short Soprano Solo in the key of A with Italian words.
- Lines 5—8. A Treble and Bass in the key of B minor marked 'Alla.'
- Lines 9 and 10. A portion of a Recit. for Soprano, continued below the line. The Bass to this Recit. is written in the right-hand corner and margin.
- p. 70. Lines 1—4. A piece of canonic imitation for Soprano, Alto, Tenor and Bass, in the key of F \sharp minor. There is a great similarity between the subject of this fragment and that of the Ground Bass in the Oratorio Susanna (H.-G. i. 8).
- Lines 5—8. A movement of 27 bars, apparently complete, in the key of A minor, for two Sopranos and Bass.
- pp. 71 and 72. Two pages with the lower lines torn off.
- p. 71. On lines 1—3, and a portion of 4 and 5, is the Treble and Bass of some unidentified Soprano Air to the words

- 'sdegnata sei' (?) in the key of E \flat . On line 4 is an incomplete exposition (in three parts) of a Fugue in the key of B \flat . On line 6 the Treble and Bass of a movement of the character of a Minuet. The Treble of the second part is continued at the end of line 5.
- p. 72. Probably studies or the commencements of movements for one of the later revisions of 'Il Pastor Fido,' Mirtillo being one of the Soprano characters in that work. Some of the Clefs and words of the Recits. on this page are written by Smith, but all the music is by Handel.
- On lines 1 and 2 is a Recit. for 'Mirtillo' in 'Atto 6^o scena 7^a' to the words 'È felice chi puote amar,' &c. On line 3 is four bars Treble only, of a movement in the key of F, $\frac{3}{2}$ time.
- On the middle of lines 3 and 4 is the commencement of a movement (Treble and Bass) in the key of D minor; the Treble is continued at the latter end of line 6, the Bass to the same being on line 8.
- At the end of lines 3 and 4 is the Treble and Bass of a movement in the key of D major, $\frac{6}{8}$ time. The Treble is continued, and the end marked 'Da Capo' on line 4, the Bass to which is—for the first three bars—on line 5 and the remainder on line 6.
- On lines 5—8 is a complete Recit. for Alto to the words 'Quell' via ch \grave{e} destai, inutile non è so altro il mio amore,' &c. This is a most interesting page as showing how Handel worked. The second version of 'Il Pastor Fido' yet to be issued by the H.-G. will throw light on the use he made of the material here jotted down.
- p. 73. A small piece of paper ($8\frac{1}{2}'' \times 5\frac{5}{8}''$), appears to be a part of a Quarto page, containing two fragments. The first is the commencement of the Solo 'Quanto mai felici siete,' in Ezio H.-G. lxxx. 18. The second fragment of six bars in the key of F, Treble and Bass, is at present unidentified.
- p. 74 blank.
- pp. 75, 76. Two pages of fragments. Three of them are undoubtedly from Jephth \grave{a} : probably they were all written for insertion in that work.
- p. 75. Lines 1 and 2. A fragment, three bars in length, Treble and Bass in the key of E minor. At the end of these lines is another fragment, six bars in length, with the same beginning, and based on the previous one, of which it is evidently an improvement; it seems to finish on an imperfect cadence, with a repetition mark at the end.

Another study with this same idea will be seen at the end of lines 5, 6, 7 and 8 in the key of G minor, but extended to ten bars in length, and ending in the key of B \flat major, showing it to be only half of the movement. These various fragments may be the preparation for the Gavotte to the words 'Welcome as the cheerful light' in Jephtha, H.-G. xliv. 140.

Lines 3 and 4. A fragment in the key of E minor, four bars in length, not connected with the above. The last two bars are written twice, with an alteration.

Lines 5 and 6. An incomplete fragment, eleven bars in length, Treble and Bass, evidently the first thought for the Minuet in Jephtha, H.-G. xliv. 6. This fragment is in the key of E minor but in the final form the key is G minor.

Lines 7 and 8. Six bars in the key of A major, the first idea for the symphony in the key of F, H.-G. xliv. 123, to the Aria 'His mighty arm.'

Lines 9 and 10. Four studies of the Fugue subject and counter-subject used in the Chorus 'How dark' to the words 'No certain bliss,' H.-G. xliv. 181.

p. 76. A series of fragments having the appearance of being Symphonies to various movements.

Line 1. A short piece of Treble, three bars in length in the key of F.

Lines 2 and 3. 'Larghetto' five bars in length in the key of B minor, similar in character to that in Theodora, H.-G. viii. 52.

Lines 4 and 5. The commencement of a Fugue, Treble and Bass, of about 10 bars in length, in the key of A, with a correction or improvement of bar 3 written in the left hand margin.

Lines 6 and 7. A symphony, Treble and Bass, to a song in the key of G minor, about six bars in length.

Lines 8 and 9. The beginning of an 'Adagio' about 9 bars in length, Treble and Bass. Also, about ten bars of a fragment of Treble and Bass in the key of E minor, similar in character to the Minuet in Jephtha. This fragment finishes with a perfect cadence.

Line 10. The exposition of a Fugue in four parts in the key of D, the end of which is written in the Tenor Clef. There appears to be a signature written here, but the music is written over it.

p. 77. Lines 1—4. The part for the 'corno 2^{do}' in G of the 'Marche' in Judas Maccabeus H.-G. xxii. 189. This piece is written by Smith evidently for use in performance.

Lines 5—9. A complete 'Minuet by Mr Handel' in the key of G for Oboes, Horns and Bassoon, at present unpublished.

p. 78. A 'corno 2^{do}' part in the key of D (in Smith's writing) of a 'March,' the studies for which will be found p. 34 of the Vol. of Italian Cantatas 252. This copy proves that the March was performed as an independent piece; at present it seems to be unpublished.

p. 79. Part of the Soprano Solo 'Banish Love from thy breast,' in Hercules, H.-G. iv. 140, with accompaniment for Violins (in unison) and Bassi: differing from the final form.

p. 80. A complete but unpublished 'Minuet' in the key of D, Treble and Bass.

p. 81 blank.

p. 82. A Chorale 'Jesu meine Freude,' harmonized in three parts, with short interludes between the lines; the subject or Canto Fermo of the Chorale is in the Alto. On lines 5 and 6 is a small fragment of two bars marked '2' and ending with a perfect cadence in the key of G minor. This latter may be a second ending of the Chorale.

pp. 83—90. Handel's copy of a Mass or parts of a Mass by Habermann, (a ms. copy of which is in the Buckingham Palace Library?) This work he used largely in the composition of 'Jephtha,' as a comparison of this ms. with the facsimile of the autograph of Jephtha as issued by Dr Chrysander will show.

p. 83 is embodied in the Chorus 'No more to Ammon's God and King,' on p. 16 of the facsimile.

pp. 84 and 85 are used in the Bass Solo 'Pour forth no more unheeded prayers,' on p. 11 of the facsimile. Habermann's work is evidently—from the clefs, etc., a Chorus for S. A. T. B. in the key of A, while Handel has used the same idea for Bass Solo in the key of F.

The alteration Handel has made in the first bar of the Canto part (at the end of line 3 on p. 84) can be easily traced in the facsimile at the first bar of the Solo. This, and another alteration of the last three bars on the Tenor and Alto line, were, to judge from the appearance of the ink, done when the work was actually being used as the basis of Jephtha.

pp. 86 and 87. A movement 'Kyrie Eleison' in the key of D, for strings, flutes, organ and voices, the subject of which will be found in the Chorus 'O God, behold our sore distress' on p. 64 of the facsimile. On the lower line of this page Handel has varied the subject, although he does not appear to have used the variation in the work itself.

pp. 88 and 89. An 'Allegro' movement in the key of D for strings, flutes, organ and voices, extensively used in the Chorus 'Chemosh no more' on p. 21 of the facsimile.

p. 90. An 'Alla breve' movement in the key of D, for the same voices and instruments as the previous parts; above the top line Handel has written, 'Theme sublime of endless praise,' and he has used this subject to those words on p. 234 of the facsimile.

There are extensive alterations in this copy of Habermann's work which lead one to imagine that copying was not Handel's strong point.

p. 92. A short fragment (Treble and Bass) of three bars in the key of A. It appears to be a short piece of accompaniment.

p. 93. A copy of one of the London cries. At the top of the page is written 'John Shaw, near a brandy shop St Giles's in Tyburn Road, sells matches about.'

buoy a - ny matches, my matches buoy.

There are also some words written with pencil. The whole page has the appearance of having been doubled up, and (probably) carried in the pocket. The plan of the page is here given, with a copy of such of the notes as could be read.

The note about John Shaw. (a)	James W.H..... Carboroug(h) James Eq. p. 94. A page of pencil notes. On the four lowest lines, is a piece at present unidentified, and written with the paper turned the wrong way uppermost, in the key of F, for Soprano, which appears to end with the words 'L' alma ressitera.' This may be connected with the Solo in 'Olibrio,' (258, page 75).

Up the left hand side of the page is written—'stanza armata(?) l' alma resistera, a Genoa nell Demofonte (? Demofonte) 1753 Opera Arie scritte.' This page may possibly throw some light upon the supposed blindness of Handel, an affliction said to have overtaken him early in 1753 (Jan. 17, 1753, the papers announced that fact; see Schoelcher's Life of Handel, p. 321).

30 H 14. p. 1. (11½" × 9¼"). Lines 1—4. The final 'Ritornello' 8 bars only of a Concerto in the key of G, for Strings, Oboes, and Flutes. At the top of the page is written 'Concerto tacet | Adagio tacet | Allegro tacet |.' This probably means that the Concerto was to consist of three movements (although such is not Handel's usual method of treating that Form) and that this 'Ritornello' which is here marked 'Fine' concluded the work. Why the word 'tacet' is applied to all three movements it is not possible to say; it is difficult to believe that the instruments here written for were to remain silent during the whole of the work until the final eight bars, although everything points to that idea. On line 5 is written again, 'Concerto tacet | Adagio tacet |.' On line 6 is written a Bass with the direction 'repetatur ad libitum' showing that it was to be treated as a Ground Bass. Probably this was intended for the first movement of the Concerto; the second movement (from the key signature towards the end of line 6) was to be in the key of B \flat , and to the third movement (Allegro) the Ritornello above referred to (which in itself is based on the Ground Bass) was to form a final Tutti—the last bar (of Bass) on line 6, with the reference mark, unmistakably showing that it was to follow the movement in B flat.

Line 7 and 9. This Treble is the first thought for the Larghetto in H.-G. xxx. 126, (Grand Concertos).

p. 2 blank.

pp. 3—6 (9 $\frac{1}{8}$ " \times 11 $\frac{1}{8}$ "). The Concertino (or Solo Instruments) copy of the Allegro in the first of the Grand Concertos, published with a few slight differences in H.-G. xxx. 8. There is no pause before the last two bars as printed, but there is a mark in the Bass which may mean that some alteration was intended.

p. 7. A movement from one of the Concertos—probably the organ part—H.-G. xxviii. (Organ Concertos), 139.

p. 8. Lines 1—4. Two pencil fragments in the key of B \flat , connected with the Allegro in the key of A, H.-G. xxx. (Grand Concertos), 162.

pp. 9—14. Six pages of the well-known Concerto in D, No. 5 of the Twelve Grand Concertos, also used as the Overture to St Cecilia's Day.

This copy has Hautbois parts, which Dr Chrysander implies (in the preface to the H.-G. edition of these works) were not added to this and the next movement. It also bears marks of extensive alterations.

It commences at bar 8 of H.-G. xxx. 73, and continues as printed to the end of the Concerto.

The passages of String parts crossed out on p. 9 marked 'C,' and p. 12 marked 'D,' will be found written as published in H.-G. xxx. under those letters on p. 13. The Oboe parts of these altered portions are not written with the improved string parts, but remain in their proper places on pp. 9 and 12, showing that they were an after-thought and were added even after the work had undergone reconstruction.

From the signature on p. 12, 'Fine,'

G. F. Handel

it is probable that this Allegro was written for the Ode to St Cecilia and the 'Minuet' (on p. 13) added ultimately, although this is not the Minuet published in the H.-G. edition of that work.

The earlier part of this Concerto appears to be in Buckingham Palace Library (see Rockstro's Life of Handel, p. 331).

pp. 15 and 16 ($9\frac{1}{8}'' \times 11''$). A different version of the latter part of the 1st movement (Allegro) of the Organ Concerto No. 3, H.-G. xxviii. 102. From the number of the bars being written at the end of the lines and movement, it appears to have been complete and finished, although it differs greatly from the published version.

At the end of this movement on p. 16 is written the first line of a well-known German Chorale (used by Bach in his Passions) with four lines in German written under it :

... ..(two words)
nun ruhen alle Wälder euch auch nun meine lieben lasst nicht gar nicht betrüben.

On line 9 of this page is another unidentified fragment for Soprano in the key of G, with the German text added. It appears to be a subject from a Chorale.

The text is as follows :—

'und singen mit den himels heer heilig, heilig ist gott der herr den mund zum lobe dein.

Verni. (?)

pp. 17—23 ($9\frac{1}{8}'' \times 11\frac{1}{2}''$). The Concertino parts complete (for two Clarinets and Corno di Caccia) of an 'Overture' in five movements. The 1st 'Largo' in D; 2nd 'Allegro ma non troppo' in D; 3rd 'Larghetto' in D; 4th marked 'Andante Allegro;' evidently the first intention was to have an Allegro, but eventually the Andante was added instead; 5th 'Allegro' in D, the word 'Menuet' crossed out.

This appears to be the only instance in existence of Handel's using the Clarinet. At present this work is unpublished.

The String parts of this work are not at present forthcoming: it is to be hoped that they will be found in some of the Libraries containing Handel's mss., so as to enable the performance and publication of this important composition to be undertaken. It was probably written about 1740.

p. 24 blank.

pp. 25—27 ($11\frac{1}{2}'' \times 9\frac{5}{8}''$). A portion of the conducting score written by Smith, of the Organ Concerto No. 5, in F. It will be found commencing at the last two bars of H.-G. xxviii. 61.

Handel has added in pencil, the words 'ad libitum' previous to the entry of the Tutti parts, showing that at this point he would begin his improvisation.

p. 28 blank.

pp. 29—36 ($9\frac{1}{8}'' \times 11\frac{9}{8}''$). 'Concerto' in D minor.

An arrangement of the first movement of the Concerto in H.-G. xxviii. 115, similar in character, but very different in orchestration. The Instruments here used are 2 Violins, Viola, 2 Cellos, and 'Violoni Grossi,' 2 Bassoons and 2 Organs. The 2 Organs appear to be used, one as a Solo, the other as a Chorus or Tutti Instrument.

pp. 37—44 ($9\frac{1}{2}'' \times 11\frac{3}{4}''$). A copy (written by Smith) of the Concerto movement as on the previous pages 29—36 of this Vol. with pencil alterations written by Handel. The first, on p. 39, shows that it was at one time intended to finish the movement at that point. The second, on p. 43, is an inserted cadence marked 'Adagio' reducing the length of the movement by seven bars. This pencilled ending was eventually accepted as the finished version of the work and printed in H.-G. xxviii. 117.

pp. 45—60 ($9\frac{1}{8}'' \times 11\frac{5}{8}''$). Portions of an 'Overture' for Double Orchestra of Wind Instruments, they may have formed pieces of the 'Firework Music' written in 1749, or the Double Concerto in F, both of which works are published in H.-G. xlvii.

pp. 45, 46. The 1st movement or Adagio, written for 'Chorus 1 and 2' of Horns, Oboes and Bassoons. This movement was published by Arnold—in a very incomplete state—in 1797 but up to the present it has not been issued by the H.-G.

Dr Chrysander in the preface to H.-G. xlvii. says 'the music was written for wind instruments;' and he implies that the String parts 'were written by Handel apparently subsequently,' this view is borne out by this ms., for the String parts to this movement will be found on p. 55 of this Vol., and the Organ part—in much later writing—on p. 57. The work was undoubtedly intended to be—in its final state—an Overture or Concerto for Organ, Strings and two Choruses of Wind Instruments.

pp. 47—54. The continuation of the 'Allegro ma non troppo' the loss of which caused the publication of H.-G. xlvii. to be incomplete, finishing as it does with the first two bars of this movement. Dr Chrysander in speaking of the Double Concerto in F, published in H.-G. xlvii., says—in the preface to that part—'It consists of nine distinct movements and leads on to a tenth, which, after two bars, given on p. 231, suddenly breaks off; so that notwithstanding its great length it is not preserved complete.' And again, 'The autograph ends at the end of a page and a sheet; more must therefore have been in existence which is now lost.'

The continuation supposed to be lost is in these eight pages. The autograph of the published part of the work is in the Buckingham Palace Library, and is written on quarto paper; here it is continued on oblong paper.

p. 54. The last four bars of the Allegro ma non troppo and an 'Adagio senza Corno di Caccia,' for Oboes and Strings. The Viola part of which will be found on p. 56.

The 'NB e Viola' at the commencement of line 8, is a reference to the Viola part also to be found on line 5, p. 56.

p. 55. 'Li Violini per l' Overture.' The String parts to the movement for Wind Instruments on pp. 45 and 46. At the end of this is written a $\frac{3}{4}$ time signature for all the Strings and 'Segue. doppio questa tripla. seg.' also a part of the word Volti cut by a previous binder.

- p. 56. The String parts of the Tutti of the Allegro ma non troppo movement on pp. 47—54, commencing with 62 bars rest. These parts will therefore begin with the Wind parts at the top of p. 52, and continue to the end of the movement. The 'NB Viola' on line 5 belongs to line 8 on p. 54. The 'Viola' part in $\frac{3}{2}$ time belongs to the 'Adagio' on the same page. From the 'Segue Andante $\frac{3}{4}$ e poi Allegro $\frac{1}{8}$ ' being written at the end of this Adagio, it appears probable that these two movements were intended to follow.
- p. 57. The Organ or Harpsichord part of the Adagio of which the String and Wind parts will be found on pp. 45 and 55. This writing is much later than that of the other parts of the work.
- p. 58. Short pieces, possibly intended as subjects for improvisation, belonging to the various movements of the foregoing Concerto; the reference marks refer to the autograph copy of the Organ or Harpsichord part in the British Museum (Add. mss. 30310).
- pp. 59, 60 blank.

N.B. The greater part of this volume is in Smith's handwriting. The autograph portions are noted as such.

- 6 I 15 pp. 1—7. 'Toccata. Per Cembalo. Del Sigr. Giorgio Federico Hendel.' An unpublished Toccata in the key of G, probably written during Handel's stay in Italy, at which time he spelt his name as here written.
- p. 8 blank.
- p. 9. The Treble and Bass of a movement used in the Overture of Il Pastor Fido (H.-G. lix. 1), and in the Fourth Organ Concerto, Set II. (H.-G. xxviii. 123). This copy appears to be a portion of the Organ Concerto.
- pp. 10, 11. 'La Marche'—The well-known Dead March in Saul, written for the Harpsichord or Cembalo. Portions of this appear to be autograph.
- p. 12. A piece of a Minuet movement unidentified, in the key of B \flat .

pp. 13, 14. A vocalist's copy ('Cosroe') from Siroe, very different from that published in H.-G. lxxv. 71. Was the 'Scena 11' on p. 13, intended as an additional Scena to Act II.?

pp. 15—20. 'Sono i colpi della sorte per un alma.'

An unpublished version of this Solo in Rodelinda (H.-G. lxx. 33), in the handwriting of Smith.

pp. 21, 22 blank.

pp. 23—27. A complete copy of Suite No. 1, Set III. in the handwriting of Smith, containing many ornaments not in the printed version H.-G. ii. 125. At the top of page 23 is the signature 'Del Sigr. G : F : Handel.'

p. 28 blank.

pp. 29—32. Another copy of the same Suite.

pp. 33—36. 'Overture di Flavio,' a copy written probably for the printer, as it is exactly the same as the edition of the work published by Wright, successor to Walsh, on p. 50 of 'Handel's Overtures,' and it differs slightly from that published by the H.-G.

p. 37 blank.

pp. 38—39. 'L' Allegro.' A 'Carillon' part in the key of G for the Solo 'Or let the merry bells ring round,' printed in the key of D in H.-G. vi. 67. This part is neither published nor referred to in the H.-G. edition.

p. 40 blank.

pp. 41—52. An Organ and Violoncello part of Grand Concerto No. 11, H.-G. xxx. 148.

pp. 41—47. The Organ, it appears, was only used in the 1st and 5th movements (Largo, Allegro).

p. 48 blank.

pp. 49—52. The Cello was used in the 1st, 4th and 5th movements (Largo, Andante, Allegro). Between the two last is a 'Grave' six bars long, not in the published version.

These parts, written by Smith, are probably an arrangement of the Grand Concerto for Organ and Strings, and were not intended to be used with the work as published by the H.-G.

pp. 53—60. In the preface to H.-G. v. (Athaliah) we read:—'At a later period Handel introduced several numbers from the 'Parnasso in Festa' (with other texts) into Athaliah, and made important changes in the last part, both by omission and by the introduction of passages from the Chandos and Coronation Anthems.'

These pages are a Cello part for one of the performances when such alterations were introduced.

pp. 53—55. The Cello part of a portion of the Chorus 'Put thy trust in God' from the Chandos Anthem 'As pants the hart'; it will be found commencing at the last bar of H.-G. xxxiv. 269. The 'Alleluja' Chorus in Athaliah is the same as that in the Chandos Anthem, but the words 'Praise him' written on this page (53) prove that this Cello part belonged to the Chandos Anthem Chorus, and not to that of Athaliah.

The fact that the two top lines (the end of the Anthem) on p. 55 are crossed out, shows that it may have been intended at some other performance to commence with the next movement.

pp. 55—57. A Cello part of a shortened form of the Chorus 'The mighty pow'r' at p. 95 of Athaliah (H.-G.). It is shortened by the omission of the Alto Solo on p. 110—113 of H.-G.

pp. 57—59. 'Cor fedele spera sempre.' An unpublished Soprano Solo in the key of G minor, given at the second performance of 'Israel in Egypt' on April 11th 1739 (see Schoelcher's Life of Handel, p. 209).

p. 60. An unpublished Recit. 'Offra un Core devoto' for Soprano. Also a small portion of an unpublished Soprano Solo 'Bianco giglio' in the key of D.

pp. 61—66. Parts of another Cello part, possibly for Athaliah.

p. 61. The two top lines are the last few bars of the Alleluja Chorus—above referred to—on p. 55—as being in the Chandos Anthem or in Athaliah.

'Mi palpita.' An Air (very different from both the published versions H.-G. l. 153 and 161) for Soprano, in the key of F, and ending in the key of A minor, leading into the next Air ('Allegro').

pp. 62—65. 'La speranza la costanza' at present unpublished, referred to in Schoelcher's Life of Handel (p. 209) as having been given at the second performance of Israel in Egypt, and of which he says:—"La speranza la costanza" seems to be lost. This copy has a pencil correction on p. 64 possibly by the composer.

p. 66. An unpublished Recit. 'Chi con core' for Soprano leading into some Air.

All this is in Smith's writing.

pp. 67—77. A Conducting Score, written by Smith, of an arrangement of the Concerto No. 10, H.-G. xxx. 133. The work as published consists of six movements, but in this ms. there are only three, viz. the 1st, 2nd and 6th. The last is written in the key of D minor, but published in D major. It is probably a mistake of Smith's, he having added a flat, instead of a sharp, to the signature.

p. 78 blank.

pp. 79—82. An arrangement, written by Smith, of the Allegro in the Overture to 'Giustino', very much shorter than that published H.-G. lxxxiii. 2. This may have been the original form of the work, ultimately lengthened and improved before publication.

pp. 83—89. A Conductor's Score—probably written by Smith, Junr.—of the first two movements of the Concerto III. published in H.-G. xxviii. 102, with the Organ Solo parts not written but marked 'ad libitum' implying that Handel improvised these Solos, having merely written the Tutti parts; but even these parts as here written do not agree with the published copy.

p. 90 blank.

pp. 91—93. 'Concerto in Otho.' The String parts of a Minuet (in the writing of Smith, Junr.) in the key of D. It does not appear to be published.

p. 94 blank.

pp. 95, 96. A 'Menuet' in the key of D minor (in the writing of Smith, Junr.), at present unpublished. The pencil marks on p. 96 are probably Handel's own writing.

pp. 97—102. An arrangement of the Allegro (in the writing of Smith, Junr.) in Concerto III., H.-G. xxviii. 41 for Hautbois, Bassoons and Contra Basso. It was probably used as an independent movement and not as a part of the Concerto. It is unpublished.

pp. 103, 104 blank.

pp. 105—108. A portion of an unidentified Soprano Solo, in the writing of Smith, Junr., to the words :—

‘Future times record thy story
And with wonder sing thy name;
Great in wisdom, great in glory, Thee all nations shall proclaim :’

with an accompaniment for Bassi and Cello obbligato.

Ebbi da te la vita	9
E pena troppo barbara	85
Gelido in ogni vena	10
Lascia venirmi	49
La sorte mia tiranna	9
Meglio rifletti al dono	89
Non vi piacque	9
Perchè se tanti siete	86
Quando saprai	103
Reca la pace	24
Ride il ciel per me	10

Madrigals (complete in 12 vols.)
128—132, 134—143
Ad una fresca riva 130
Ah che torn' il ben mio 137
Ah dolente partita..... 140
Ahi, chi t' insidia 139
Ahi, dispietata..... 56, 134
Ahimè, che col fuggire... 129
Ahimè, ch' io peno 131
Ahimè, qual empia sorte 132
Ahimè qual fu l'errore... 130
Ahimè, tal fu d'amore... 141
Alas what a wretched life 56
Alas we part 57
Alas where is my love... 135
Alla mia Clori 130
Alla Strada 130
Al lume delle stelle 138
Alma che fai 129
Al primo vostro sguardo 129
Al suon delle dolcissime 142
Al vago del mio sole..... 137
Alzati il novo lauro..... 143
Amatemi ben mio (a 3) 131
do. do. (a 6) 141
Ami Tirsi 138
Amor è ritornato 130
Amor fa quanto fai 130
Amor io ho molti 139
Amor io non potrei... 57, 135
Amor poichè non vuole 136
Amor sciolto' è lo laccio... 130
Amor se giusto sei..... 140
Amor tien il suo regno... 129
Amor tu vuoi..... 131
Amor vuol far 129
Andar vidi 130
Anima bella 139
Anima cruda 140
Apollo s' ancor 134
Arda pur sempre 138
Ard' ogni or il cor..... 129

Farewell cruell and unkind.....	134
Ferir quel petto.....	139
Filli ama Tirsi	131
Fillida mia	137
Filli, l' acerbo caso	138
Filli mia bella	143
Filli tu sei piu bella.....	138
Filli volgendo i lumi	139
Fiume ch' ha l' onde	140
Forz' è che sempre	130
Fra le ninfe	131
Fra questi lassi.....	129
Fuggiro tant' amore.....	129
Fuggi speme mia	141
Già Febo il tuo splendore.....	137
Già torna a rallegrar	137
Giovani incauti.....	129
Giunt' a un bel fonte	142
Giunto alla tomba	12, 17, 136
Grave dolor	130

Madrigals:—

How long with vain com- plaining	136
I begl' occhi	131
I lieti amanti	134
Il ladro ch' alla strada	129
Il suo vago gioioso	137
Il vago bello Armillo	140
Il vostro divo aspetto	130
I must leave her lament- ing	57, 135
In quel bel nato	137
In un bel bosco	142
In un lucido rio	142
Io amo e certo vivo	130
Io ardo e se l' ardore	130
Io morirò d' amore	142
Io piango ed ella	137
Io son amore	130
Io son ferito	130
Io son pur sciolt' amor	131
Io son rimasto solo	132
Io vidi già	141
Ite amari sospiri	139
Itene all' ombra	137
La bella donna mia	132
La bella man	140
La bella ninfa mia	135
La dispartita e amara	142
Lady when I behold	134
La farfalla	131
L' alto e nobil pensier	138
La mia Clori è brunetta	139
La pastorella mia	137
La rete fu di queste	138

Madrigals:—

Mia sorte empia	130
Mi fa lasso	137
Mi parto	131
Mi vorria lamentar	131
Molti anima selvaggi	132
Ne fero sdegno	141
Nel dolce seno	141
Nel più fiorito Aprile	142
Nessun vissi giammai	142
Non al sua amante	134
Non è dolor nel mondo	129
Non è questa la mano	142
Non m' è grave	131
Non porta ghiaccio	141
Non posso più soffrire	131
Non può tanto l'accosa	130
Non sò fuggir	131
Non vidi mai	134
Nova angeletta	134
Novo Titio son io	131
O bella man	134
Occhi dolci e soavi	131
Occhi lucenti	135
Occhi miei	135
Occhi sereni	141
O che soave	142
O dolce anima mia	136
O dolcezze amarissime	138
O dolorosa sorte	141
O fido o caro Aminta	138
Ohimè dov' è il mio ben	135
Ohimè il bel viso	137
Ohimè l' antica fiamma	137
Ohimè se tanto amate	136
O liete piante	129
O love at length reward me	57
O lovely Berenice	57
O merry world	230
O my loving sweet hart, in Morley's Ital Mad.	15, 137
O occhi del mio core	139
O quante volte	140
Or che Clori beata	139
Or ch' esce fuor	131
Or gite via fidare	132
Or sol dissi tu	139
Or vedi Amor	134
O sventurati amanti	130
O tu che fea le selve	143
O tu che mi dai pene	130
O voi che sospirate	137
Partirò dunque	136
Parto da voi	142
Parto e non parto	140

Ridean già	58, 135
Rimansi in pace	139
Rose bianche	137
Sapete amanti	137
S'a veder voi	140
Saziati Amor	141
Scaldava il sol	136
Scendi dal Paradiso ...	138
Scherzando con diletto ...	136
Se bramate ch' io moro ...	140
Se brami mort' il core...	130
See now the western winds	58, 135
Se già fatto pittore	130
Seguir una ch' odia	131
Se il dolce sguardo	129
Se la mia fiamma	136
Se la speranza	130
Se la vostra partita	132
Se leggete	130
Se le pene	130
Se 'l pensier che mi strugge	143
Se m' ami	130
Se m' uccidi	131
Senza cor	137
Se perchè non uccida ...	130
Se per servi	131
Se sì in alto pongir	140
Se voi siete	135
Sì dolci son li strali	131

Blessed be the Lord	65
Blessed is he whose unrighteousness	37, 66 and in Purcell's Harm. Sac. and Playford's Harm. Sac.	241, 2
Bow down Thine ear... 38, 66
Hear me, O Lord	38, 66
Hear my prayer	38

PURCELL, Henry (continued)

In Thee, O Lord	128
It is a good thing	128
I was glad	66, 128
in Goodison, Purcell's Harm. Sac., and Playford's Harm. Sac.	237, 241, 2
I will give thanks	128
I will sing unto the Lord	65
Let God arise	65
Lord, how long	38
Lord, who can tell	65
Man that is born of a woman	38, 66
My Beloved spake	67
My heart is fixed	128
My heart is inditing	128
My song shall be, in Purcell's Harm. Sac., and Playford's Harm. Sac.	241, 2

O give thanks, in Purcell's Harm. Sac., Playford's Harm. Sac., and Boyce	241, 2, 6

O God, Thou art my God	38, 68
and in Goodison and Boyce	237, 246
O God, Thou hast cast us out	38, 65
and in Boyce	246
O Lord God of hosts ...	38
and in Boyce	246
O Lord our Governor ...	65
O praise God in His holiness	128
Out of the deep, in Goodison	237
Praise the Lord, O my soul	128
Rejoice in the Lord	128
Remember not, Lord... 38, 65
Save me, O God... 37, 65
The Lord is my light ...	128
They that go down, in Purcell's Harm. Sac., and Boyce	241, 246
Thy way, O God, in Purcell's Harm. Sac., and Boyce	241, 246
Thy word is a lantern, in Boyce	246
Unto Thee will I cry ...	128
Why do the heathen ...	128
and in Goodison	237

Fly swift ye hours	76
For folded flocks	73
From rosy bowers.....	75
From silent shades	73
Genius of England	74
Gentle Shepherds.....	76
Hark, my Daridcar	76
Here's to thee, Dick	75
How blest are shepherds	74
How great are the blessings	74
How pleasant is this ...	76
If prayers or tears	76
I'll sail upon the dog-star	75
I looked and saw	75
Leave these useless	76
Let Caesar and Urania live	73
Let Hector, Achilles.....	74
Let the dreadful engines	75
Let the life	75
Lost is my quiet	75
Lovely Albina	75
Love, thou art best	76
Nestor, who did	75
Next Winter comes	13
No, resistance	75
Now the maids	75
Oh the sweet delights ...	73
O lead me to some	76
O Solitude	76
Return fond muse (doubtful)	13
Seek not to know	76
She loves and she confesses	72, 76
Since times are so bad...	74
Sing all ye muses.....	75
Sound a parley.....	74
Stript of their green ...	76
There ne'er was so wretched	75
This poet sings.....	76
Though my mistress be fair	75
'Tis wine was made.....	73
To arms	74
Tom a Bedlam	74
Two daughters of this ...	76
Underneath this myrtle shade	74

STRADELLA, Alessandro (c. 1645—1688)

Duets :—

Ahi che posar	127
Ai torbidi fiumi	126
Allettarmi	127
Ardo sospiro	127
Aura che dolce spira	126
Aure fresche	127
Begl' occhi un guardo	126
Cara labbra	127
Care stille	127
Che farci poss' io	127
Chi dirà che nel veleno (or by Steffani)	5, 6
Chi non crede	126
Disperato morirò	126
Doppia fiamma	126
Farfalletta	126
Fulmini quanto sa	127
Io d' amore	126
Io per viver	126
La bellissima speranza	127
La mia donna	126
L' amore e lo sdegno	18
Mai vibro saette	127
Ma non voler	127
Me ne ferete tanto	127
Non fu il tesoro	126
Non sa mai amor	127

Duets :—

Occhi belli	126
Occhi miei	127
Occhi rei	126
Onde con strana sorte ...	127
Patienza finirà	127
Pensieri volati	126
Per ch' io sospiri	126
Piangete occhi	127
Pria ch' il fior	126
Quando adoro	126
Se la gloria	127
Se perduta ho la spe- ranza	127
Si, si, ferite mi	126
Soffrite, tacete	126
Son già rotte	126
Sparisce quel vento	127
Tu sola	127
Un core di smalto	126
Vago rio	126
Vieni speranza	126

Madrigals :—

Clori son fido amante ...	8, 13, 17
Piangete occhi dolenti	17, 127

Motet, Benedictus Dominus Deus*Oratorio*, San Giovanni Battista

extr.	18
and in Fitz. Mus.	246

Serenatas*Songs* :—

Ah che vale il sospirar ...	84
A quel candido foglio ...	84
Dalle sponde	19
Da mille pene	19, 84
Deh, frenate	19
Disperata rimembranza	82
Eccomi acciuto	19
E pur sempre	83
Forse unato pensier ...	82, 84
Fuor della stigia sponda	84
Già languiva la notte	18, 103
Giunto vivo alla tomba	83
Il più misero amante ...	19, 82
Il più tenero affetto	82
In quel sol	19
Io vi miro	84
L' havete fatta	82
Mortali, che sarà	19
Noiosi pensieri	82
Non me ne fate	19
Ombre voi che celate ...	19
O mio cor	82
Per molti anni	83
Poi ch' avaro desio	19

Songs :—

Presso un rivo	82
Privo delle sue luci	19
Qual di cieca passione ...	84
Quando stanco	82
Quant' è bella	82
S' amor m' annoda	82
Se Nerone lo vuole ...	18, 82
Soccorso, o!à	19
Solca il mar	19
Sopra candido foglio ...	19
Sopra un eccelsa torre ...	18
Sotto l' aura	83
Stanco della speranza ...	83
Vaganti pensieri	83
Vaghe calme	84

Trios :—

Colpo de bei vostr' occhi	127
Deh lasciate	126
Ecco ritorno	127
E pur giunta	127
Feritevi	127
Ma se morti	127
Negli alti campi	126
Pur vivo della mia vita	127
Torna Cinthia	126
